BAY REGION STORM DOES BIG DAMAGE

Lightning Sets Fire to Two Huge Oil Tanks at Oleum, Causing Explosions and Loss of at Least $100,000

Transmission Stations in Several Localities Are Hit and Lights Go Out in Towns; Crops Are Injured

Here is what last night's lightning storm, the most severe in this region in a quarter of a century, did in the various cities about the bay:

OLEUM—Lightning bolts exploded and set fire to two huge oil tanks, shaking cities as far away as Crockett and Vallejo, and causing damage amounting to $100,000.

MARTINEZ—Two linemen were badly burned when lightning struck a transmission station in which they were repairing wires.

ALAMEDA—All sections of the city were thrown into total darkness for more than an hour last night when a shaft of lightning struck a transformer at the corner of Lincoln avenue and Minuteman street.

VALLEJO—Lights went out all over the city, and panic was narrowly averted in a downtown theater, when lightning blew out the main fuses in the Kentucky street sub-station of the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

SANTA ROSA—Prune and grape crops, which were drying in the fields were ruined by the terrific downpour of rain which accompanied the electrical disturbance.

SAN FRANCISCO—Fire was started by lightning, which struck a mattress factory.

SACRAMENTO—Slight damage was reported as having been caused by the thunder storm, serious losses in vineyard sections having been averted by early storm warnings.

PATTERSON—Electric sub-station struck by lightning and burned out.

Fire broke out in San Francisco when a bolt of lightning struck near the Bernhard Mattress Factory, 2700 Eighteenth street. Aided by the terrific downpour of rain which followed immediately afterward, the fire department quickly extinguished the blaze.

STORM DAMAGES PRUNES AND GRAPES

Reports from Santa Rosa today indicated that the heavy rain which accompanied the electrical disturbance in that part of the country had caused great damage to the prune and grape crops. The prunes were drying in trays and the grapes were on the ground in boxes.

Short-circuited power wires, which left Alameda, Vallejo, and other Bay cities in total darkness for several hours were another result of the storm.

Not since 1898 has a storm of such severity been recorded at this time of the year, and the thunder and lightning was the first reported in this section in the past six years.

SOME WYVERN STATE

The storm struck first in the northern portion of the bay region and gradually moved southward. The fire at Oleum occurred at about 6:30 o'clock last night.

It was not until 10:30 that it reached San Francisco, while it was in the early hours of this morning that it visited Oakland and Alameda in its greatest severity.

Officials of the Union Oil company at Oleum today estimated that $100,000 would be the loss from the fire last night which destroyed approximately 20,000 barrels of oil. The conflagration broke out when two partially filled 55,000-barrel oil tanks were struck almost simultaneously by a bolt of lightning, accompanying a severe electrical storm which swept over Contra Costa and Solano counties and later Alameda county.

EXPLOSION FOLLOWS BOLT OF LIGHTNING

An explosion which shook Vallejo, Crockett and the countryside for miles around followed the electrical bolt. The fire raged for two hours, and the two flaming tanks lighted up the sky like giant torches. It was finally subdued by fire fighters of the oil company, who smothered the blaze by the use of the foam process of fighting oil fires and which suffocates the flames with chemicals.

Scores of men were rushed from the refinery and hundreds of men from the country around volunteered to fight the fire, which belched from the two tanks, and could be seen from Oakland and Berkeley.

When the lightning struck, the roof of one of the great tanks was hurled more than fifty feet, and the blaze followed the impact almost instantaneously, shooting hundreds of feet in the air. The fire fighting was hindered by the electrical storm which old residents of Oleum believe was the worst ever experienced in this portion of the state.

Isadora Duncan Roiled When She and Russ Husband Held on Ellis Island; Admitted Following an Investigation

"The Idea," Cries California Dancer When Immigration Officials Block Her Entry Upon Return From Russia

Indignant Stamp of Foot Reveals Flappy Red Boots, Adorned With Tiny Bells; Can't Talk to Her Spouse

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Isadora Duncan, classic dancer, and her husband, Serge Yessinin, Russian poet, were admitted to the United States today following an investigation by immigration authorities at Ellis Island.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Isadora Duncan, Russian classic dancer, and her young Russian poet husband, Serge Yessinin, who were detained by immigration inspectors when they arrived on the steamship Paris yesterday, will be given a hearing at Ellis Island late today.

Officials at the island insisted the detention was merely on the ground that the couple might prove undesirable aliens, but there was a hint that the authorities wanted to question them as to their pro-soviet leanings and the possibility that they might intend to spread propaganda.

Local authorities said their refusal to allow them to land was upon orders from Washington.

The originator of the modern classic dance, which was born in California, was highly indignant. "The idea," she exclaimed, when it was suggested that soviet activity might be the cause. "Serge is not a politician. He is a genius. He is a poet. We want to tell Americans of the starving children in Russia, not about soviet politics."

TALKS WITH HURRY THROUGH INTERPRETER

And to prove that her husband is a genius and a poet, she slipped her hand through his powdered tawny hair. Her secretary, who acted as interpreter, said she does not know Russian and her husband cannot speak English or French.

Miss Duncan appeared in a half barbaric Russian costume of brilliant colors. She wore bright red Russian boots which flopped around her ankles as she wore wearing fishermen's boots, and bells clanked when she walked.

At first she stamped her foot, and said she would stay on the Paris and return on the French liner rather than go to Ellis island. Today it was said by the line officials she had changed her mind, but had determined not to leave the ship until just before she was called before the board.

She is accompanied by a Russian secretary, a Russian maid and her two children.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Isadora Duncan, who, as "the world's greatest dancer," has been teaching the latest steps to little bolsheviks in Moscow, entered her native land under guard today.

The body of the famed "mytic," whose soul, she says, is wont to flutter over land and sea, was in the custody of immigration officers, as was that of Serge Yessinin, her poetic Russian husband.

The two were taken from their suite on board of the liner Paris to the Battery, and thence to Ellis island, where Uncle Sam will decide whether they can enter the United States.

"I didn't come here to preach about Lenin and Trotsky," said the dancer, who has been absent since 1917. "I came here to show you how to dance with your souls and to plead for funds to feed the Russian children."

Charging that he was stripped naked by immigration authorities and searched against his will after he had visited Miss Duncan on board the Paris yesterday, F. D. Ives, the star's manager, wired a hot protest to Washington today.

STAR'S MANAGER ROILED BY SEARCH

Durok stated he had just finished a conference with Miss Duncan when he was grabbed by authorities and rushed into a room.

"Over my protests, all my clothing was removed," he said. All my personal effects were searched. This is an outrage.

"They must have thought I had

FEDERAL AGENTS IN LIQUOR NET

Department of Justice Officers Withdrew Booze for Personal Use, Charge.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Certain unnamed "representatives of the department of justice" are declared in a federal grand jury report made public here today to have withdrawn quantities of seized liquor from storage during 1920 without due process of law, and to have disposed of part of it by appropriating it for their own use and by giving it to friends and relatives.

The grand jury also held that the liquor in question, most of which had been seized at the Washington Union station and stored in rooms of the Department of Justice building, and red warehouses here, was "disposed of" by such officers and employees with the sanction and approval of those in higher authority at that time.

The report added, however, that "in view of the unprecedented circumstances surrounding the case" it had been decided not to return the withdrawals against those involved. The withdrawals were all said to have taken place prior to Sept. 11, 1920.

By evidence gathered in a long and far-reaching investigation the jury informed the Court, it was established, that although the indictments referred to were in effect today, K. B. Nolan, secretary of the union, declared that Jake Erie ports would be most seriously affected. Nolan said that not more than a score of men were out here. The Lake Carriers' Association refused to make a statement. The offices of the association were closely guarded here.

FUGITIVE FROM QUENTIN NABBED

Richard A. Palmer Is Caught in Connecticut; Has Ten Years Still to Serve.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 2.—The arrest of the man whom the New York police recognized as Richard A. Palmer, a fugitive from San Quentin prison, California, on a train of out Boston, over the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad on Friday night, was announced by the railroad management today. It was said that complaints had previously been made of losses from their clothing by passengers on night trains. The man gave the name of Sigmund G. Carlson of Dallas, Texas.

The railroad officials say that the man escaped from San Quentin, where he had ten years yet to serve and previously had been arrested in Pennsylvania.

Richard Palmer, alias Fred Hill, was arrested in 1913 after he had stolen jewelry from guests at the St. Francis, Palace and other San Francisco hotels to the value of $25,000. Most of the loot was recovered a few minutes following his arrest, when Palmer led the detectives to his room at the Marx hotel, and turning over his mattress revealed a rare collection of diamond pins, rings, and necklaces.

When accosted as he was leaving a room, he had robbed at the St. Francis, Palmer tried a break for freedom, and dashed through the lobby of the St. Francis, with the police in full pursuit. He was caught before reaching the exit. After being committed to San Quentin for an indeterminate period, Palmer behaved so well that he was made a clerk in the warden's office. One day he saw his opportunity and quietly walked out of the gates in civilian attire. Palmer is 24 years old.

WOMEN RAP KEEPING OF MAIDEN NAME

Ackerman-Pope Plan of Marriage Brings Out Much Criticism, Some Approval From Leaders of Activities

"Too Confusing," "What of Children," "Rarely Turns Out Well," "Why Not Hyphen" Varied Comment

Further criticism and tossing an occasional bouquet of approval, representative Eastbay women today came forward with vigorous replies to the declaration made yesterday by Miss Phyllis Ackerman, wife of Professor Arthur Upham Pope, that a married woman must either refuse to take her husband's name or lose her individuality.

Among a large number of Eastbay women, prominent in club life, in professional life, some married, some single, who were asked today to give their opinions of the course advocated by Miss Ackerman, there was a large variety of replies—but most of them were "against" it.

"It's unnecessary," "It's too confusing," "Why not use both names—with a hyphen?" "What name are the children to take?" "Let's keep the old-fashioned way," "Take the man's name—but retain your independence just the same." These are a few of the answers that were given. Here and there was one expressing approval.

WIFE ARGUES FOR INDIVIDUALITY

According to Miss Ackerman, who is a member of a well-known Oakland family, a graduate of the University of California, a doctor of philosophy, and an art authority and lecturer, a woman who builds up an individuality of her own, or a business or profession of her own, sacrifices all of these, to a greater or less extent, as soon as she gives up her own name and substitutes that of her husband in its place.

To avoid this, Miss Ackerman declared, she intends to continue to be known as Miss (or Dr.) Phyllis Ackerman, in spite of her marriage to Professor Pope, former member of the philosophy department faculty at the University of California. Furthermore, she declared, not only are thousands of women doing likewise in New York at the present time, but this course will eventually be adopted throughout the country by all women who desire to preserve their individuality.

COMMENTS VARIED AMONG WOMEN

Here are the answers made to these statements today by Eastbay women:

Mrs. Aaron Schloss, former president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs: Of course, if a married woman feels strongly enough that she should retain her own name, let her do it. Most women haven't the courage or the persistence to stick to doing an original thing. I always sign my own name—Adella Tuttle Schloss—that is when I don't forget and from force of habit sign it "Adella T." There are more women out in the world working and making good at various professions than there have ever been before. However, we do evolve slowly. Through habit, I expect, we observe the customs of the years even though, sometimes, we don't approve of those customs. Phyllis Ackerman Pope would be a very sensible way for the young woman in this case to sign her name—she would still retain her individuality and at the same time acknowledge her marriage vows.

Mrs. H. J. Gute, president of the Berkeley Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations: I'm old-fashioned, I expect, because I'm perfectly happy the way I am. However, that doesn't mean that other people shouldn't be allowed to do as they please. I don't approve of cigarette smoking myself, but I don't look upon women who do smoke as social outcasts. However, there is one thing to consider in this question of retaining one's "individuality"—who are the children to claim, the father or the mother?

Mrs. Frances Wilson Kidd, former deputy district attorney of Alameda county:

I am in favor of it. But what about the children? When a woman arrives at some fame and distinction, no one recognizes her when her identity is hidden beneath her husband's name. However, she might adopt a hyphen. Professionally and in a business way there is wisdom in a woman retaining her own name after marriage. Socially, it might avoid confusion if she adopted the husband's name. There is much to be said in favor of the movement if it can be worked out. Tradition is apt to overwhelm a woman with the man's name.

Mrs. Frank G. Law, president of the California Civic League of Women Voters:

The confusion caused by a woman retaining her maiden name does

Moslem Demands Include Taking Over of Eastern Part of Territory Before Peace Negotiations Begin

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—A band of 800 Turkish irregulars crossed the border of Thrace at Sinik to the northwest of Sultani (forty miles west of Constantinople) and attacked the Greek outposts. They were being forced to withdraw when reinforcements arrived and the Turks were thrown back across the boundary.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—The Greek commander-in-chief in Thrace today notified the allied high commissioners that Greece is unable to respect the neutral zone in the Tchakia region, north of Constantinople, unless attacks upon Greeks by roving Turkish bands in that district are stopped.

It is probable that the proposal will be made at the armistice conference Tuesday that French troops occupy Thrace. One of the chief demands of the Turks is that they be allowed to take over Eastern Thrace before peace negotiations begin.

MIGHTY CONSENT TO TURKISH OFFER

"Mustapha Kemal Pasha might consent to French occupation of Thrace, but it would require 10,000 troops," Hamid Bey, envoy of the Turkish nationalists, said. He added, however, that the Turks feared that by the time France had occupied Thrace the Greeks would have devastated the region until it resembled a desert.

Withdrawal of the Turks from strategic positions in the neutral zone and arrangements for the armistice negotiations have eased the situation. Reports were received, however, that Turkish troops still were being massed near Istanbul. It was assumed that the Turkish forces in this region were acting under orders issued to them before the armistice was arranged. The Ankara government is embarrassed by lack of funds owing to non-collection of taxes.

DEPOSED GREEK MINISTERS BANISHED

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(By International News Service.)—The former Greek ministers of state under Constantine's regime, who were arrested by the Greek revolutionaries, have been banished to Agina island, said a Central News despatch from Athens today.

Former Premier Venizelos of Greece, who has been commissioned to represent the Greek revolutionary movement abroad, had an appointment today to meet Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, to outline the aims and ambitions of the new administration and to seek British support. Venizelos, it was learned, has a yet asked for a conference with Premier Lloyd George.

U. S. Will Aid Peace Movement For Near East

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The United States government is going to exert its influence to the fullest possible extent in the interest of peace in the Near East and for the protection of American interests, a high administration official declared today.

This statement was made in reply to inquiries concerning a cable sent to Secretary of State Hughes by Bishop James Cannon, from the Methodist Episcopal church of the south, who has been making an investigation of conditions in the Near East.

Bishop Cannon urged Hughes to take definite action to stop alleged Turkish atrocities. His cable was received today at the State Department.

Giants, Yankees Both Confident For World Series

HERE are high lights of rival contenders' claims of victory in the world series.

Says Babe Ruth, speaking for the Yankees: "In the year that has passed the Giants have lost strength and the Yankees have greatly improved. I think that is pretty generally admitted, and no better indication of the outcome is necessary. The team that gets the most runs and not the most instructions will win the most games."

For the Giants, Manager McGraw thus prophesies: "The morale of the Giants was never better. I am proud to think of the Giants being a team. My team is a baseball machine, and I shall see to it that no cog is missing. I feel confident that I shall be able to force the breaks to come the Giants' way."

British Forces Remain in Command of Entire Coast of Dardanelles as Islamites Evacuate the Outposts

LONDON, Oct. 2, 6 p. m. (By International News Service.)—The foreign office received word this afternoon that Russia is massing troops on the Rumanian frontier. The situation is described as menacing.

By WEBB MILLER.

United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Immediate danger of war between Great Britain and Turkey has been avoided through the peace proposals of Mustapha Kemal, the French foreign office believed today.

Quai d'Orsay was of the opinion that the English government would accept the proposal of Kemal, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, that a preliminary peace parley be held in Mudania, Asia Minor, tomorrow.

The French government accepted the Kemalist plan immediately after it had been informed of it by Yusuf Kemal, Turkish foreign minister.

KEMAL'S PLAN JAMES THREE DEMANDS

This summarizes Kemal's plan: 1.—That representatives of Turkey, Great Britain, France, Italy and Greece meet at Mudania Tuesday for a preliminary peace conference at which it is hoped that an immediate armistice can be reached, and the basis of a final peace conference, to be held about October 15, be worked out.

2.—That the military operations of Kemal in the Chanak and Ismid areas of the neutral zone be suspended, pending the Mudania conference.

3.—That Turkey be allowed to occupy Thrace as far as the Mariza river at once. This claim is made on the ground that it is necessary to prevent atrocities on the Turks by the Greeks.

Franklin Bouillon was given the credit by the French foreign office for "parently averting a war between the Turks and Britain."

oy, who has been in conference with Kemal at Smyrna, was highly praised by the press.

TURKS HELD IN CHECK BY KEMAL

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—Mustapha Kemal's command held the Turks in check today as preparations were made to hold a preliminary Near Eastern peace conference at Mudania tomorrow.

Making good their leader's promise to the allies, which accompanied the invitation for the peace conference, the Kemalists in the Chanak area of the neutral zone, made no effort to draw closer to Great Britain's triple line of trenches.

The Turks, in some instances, back out of contact with the British, evidently to avoid any possibility of a clash which would mar the peace plans of their chief.

BRITISH HOLD COASTS OF STRAITS

The British are in command of the entire coast of the narrow straits of the Dardanelles since the Turks voluntarily evacuated Erenkew, one of the most strategic positions they held.

Kemal, it is understood, has left Smyrna and tomorrow will be in Mudania, the seat of the peace conference, which has opposite Constantinople on the Sea of Marmora.

The tension among the allied representatives had lessened decidedly today, following the Kemal peace offers.

represented by Ismet Kasha and possibly by Hamid Bey.

Orders for a cessation of military movements in the Chanak region of Asiatic Turkey, and for the suspension of the activities of the Turkish irregular forces in Thrace have been issued by Mustafa Kemal Pasha, the Turkish nationalist leader.

From the clash continue between Turkish irregulars and Greeks. In one of these, near Stranja, ten Greeks and twenty Turks were killed.

The Greek commander has informed the allies that the Greeks will not be responsible for the neutrality of the zone which was recently delimited to defend the Tchaus line.

The Greek army in Thrace for the moment is absorbed in excitement of revolution and its reorganization is proceeding. It is not certain, however, to what extent the recent political upheaval will suffice to restore the morale of the troops.

Contest Give Hints for Competitors.

For the amateur photographer of the Eastbay who are trying for the prizes offered in the TRIBUNE'S big photo contest, experts of the photographic department today present some more hints as to the use of the camera that will be of aid to those who study and make use of them.

In Friday's and Saturday's issues of the TRIBUNE these experts gave suggestions regarding the strength and direction of the source of light, the speed of a photographic plate or film, and exposure as applied to outdoor snap-shots. Today their suggestions refer to time exposures both in and out of doors.

Distant views are often over-exposed. Such views require less time than near pictures and if there is no immediate foreground desired, use the next smaller stop, or one-half the exposure in such cases.

Color filters or ray screens are extremely useful in securing cloud pictures and distant views.

EFFECTS OF COLORS.

The photographic film or plate is more sensitive to the blue and violet rays than to green and red, and also more sensitive to these than to the yellow and orange. The use of the color filter is to subdue the blue violet and ultra violet rays before they reach the plate.

If not used, the blue of the sky will affect the film so strongly that the clouds, which are white, do not show in the picture as the view appears to the eye. These color filters may be purchased to fit all sizes of lenses.

They increase the exposure necessary according to the kind and intensity of the screen used. In commercial work it is often of advantage to put out different colors, and for this purpose screens and special plates are used.

TIME EXPOSURES.

Following is a table showing how to regulate time exposures, both indoors and out, under various conditions.

Time exposures indoors.

Between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., set camera on firm support, point it away from the windows; use largest stop in box cameras or U. S. 8 of iris diaphragms.

Wall and hangings—Windows.

In shade, bright sun, or open landscape, no sun—1/2 sec. to 1 sec.

Use middle stop in box cameras or U. S. 16 of iris diaphragms.

Time, Is Opinion.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(By International News Service).—Europe must pay her $11,000,000,000 indebtedness to the United States in the opinion of scores of bankers attending the 48th annual convention of the American Bankers' Association, which opened here today. Not only the principal of the loans, but the interest on them, should be paid, the bankers of the nation believe.

There was none among the bankers interviewed who believed that payment in full of the debt should be insisted upon as an immediate measure. Most of the financiers expressed the belief that time should be given the foreign nations for the liquidation of their obligations, but that it would weaken the financial influence of the United States to forego collection of these debts.

"These debts should be put in a frozen zone and thawed out slowly," said Walker Hill of the First National Bank of St. Louis. "The debts should all be paid, but they should be funded into long time bonds at a low rate of interest."

Of bankers who would express an opinion only one spoke in favor of cancellation of the debts. Solon L. Palmer, of Benton, Ky., said he thought that the debts should be wiped out so that Europe can do business with the United States.

California bankers joined with those of the middlewest in declaring that the debt should be collected.

FULL details of the meeting of the Bankers' Association today will be found in the financial pages of the TRIBUNE.

GRASS SKIRTS NOT IMPORTED, HAWAIIANS SHOW

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Hawaiian grass skirts for hula dancing are really made in Honolulu, and not shipped to Hawaii from New York or some other place, of manufacture, it would appear as the result of a spirited dispute in Honolulu on that subject between Lorrin A. Thurston, publisher of the Honolulu Advertiser, and George Melin, editor of Wela-ka-hao, the Honolulu Advertiser's weekly newspaper, says correspondence received this week from Hawaii by the Matson Navigation company. The skirts are made in Honolulu by children of various public institutions, and are not imported from New Jersey, the club's vigilance committee having investigated the charges and found that no grass skirts had ever been imported into Honolulu from the mainland to sell in Hawaii.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL,

Correspondent.

DUBLIN, Oct. 2.—Two Free State soldiers were killed and seven others wounded in an ambush attack by republican irregulars in County Kerry early today. Irregulars are reported to have suffered a serious defeat in fighting with Free Staters in County Cork. The action is continuing in the hills.

Soldiers and police are searching for one of four raiders who forced their way into the public house of Patrick Cosgrave, shooting him dead when he tried to eject him. Cosgrave was an uncle of William T. Cosgrave, president of the Dail Eireann and virtual head of the Irish provisional cabinet.

Judge Kerrigan to Open Headquarters

Judge Frank H. Kerrigan, who is seeking election to the State Supreme bench, arrived in Oakland today, in the interest of his candidacy. Friends of Judge Kerrigan in Alameda county are rallying to his support, and headquarters will be opened here tomorrow, following a meeting of his friends.

At the recent primary election Judge Kerrigan received a tremendous vote and today expressed himself as confident that he will be elected to the supreme bench at the general election on November 7. Judge Kerrigan, who is one of the best known members of the judiciary in the state, has a host of friends in Alameda county. He has been a judge for twenty-eight years, and for the past sixteen years has served as associate justice of the district court of appeal. General campaign headquarters have been opened in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

There is an air about a Willard Wrap which it is difficult to define. It lies not alone in clever designing, nor perfect workmanship, nor even in the superb choice of materials, but rather in a combination of all three. And with pelts used lavishly as they are this Fall, Willard Wraps offer a happy compromise between the subtle flattery of the fur coat and the graceful designing of the cloth wrap.

You will find Willard Wrap in every new color, every rich material, with every favored fur. They are priced as low as $45 and as high as $349.75.

When you are considering anything as important as the selection of a Wrap, the extensiveness and variety of Willard's stock and the comfortable moderation of Willard's pricing more than warrants the trip across the Bay.

SUPREME COURT MEETS TO GREET NEWEST MEMBER

Highest Judiciary Convened
After Long Recess to Swear in Justice.

By LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Reconvening after the long summer recess, the United States supreme court today was to admit to its membership former Senator George H. Sutherland, Utah, appointed as justice to succeed John H. Clarke of Ohio, resigned.

Sutherland will be sworn in at noon with the usual dignified pomp that marks a ceremony of the kind in the supreme court chamber, and in the presence of a large gathering of notables. Unless there is a last-minute change in plans, Chief Justice Taft will himself administer the oath to the new member, thus establishing a precedent. New justices heretofore have always been sworn in by the clerk of the court.

Immediately after he has been sworn and has assumed his seat, the court will be adjourned and the chief justice and associate justices will go to the White House to pay their respects to the president in pursuance of a long-established custom.

As the court resumed, reports were current that Associate Justice William R. Day of Ohio will shortly send his resignation to the president, stating he has found it necessary to devote all of his time to his duties as umpire in the settlement of war claims against Germany.

Senator John K. Shields, Democrat of Tennessee, is most talked of to succeed Day if he resigns. John W. Davis, of West Virginia, former ambassador to the court of St. James, is also being mentioned. There are 3,275,199 letters in the old testament.

Death Rate for Oakland Lowest In City's Class

Seventy per cent of the men and women in California live past the age of forty-four years, said Dr. Alvin Powell, director of Alameda County Public Health Center, while addressing Mills College students last week. Oakland has the lowest death rate of any city of its size in the United States, according to the health expert. Statistics show, said Dr. Powell, that in the United States, less than two babies out of ten die during the first year and only three in ten the first ten years. Australia and Sweden were cited as the only two countries in the world that have better health records among children. India and Japan were said to have the highest infant mortality rate.

The secret thing to do in time of epidemic is to keep the schools open, Dr. Powell told the students. In this way, he said, the children can be observed and segregated. Special service was laid on consultation service and a diagnostic center. Dr. Powell briefly outlined the Oakland health program, including the new service rendered by the visiting nurses.

Daugherty Removal Demanded by Labor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Resolutions demanding the removal of Attorney General Daugherty were adopted yesterday by the Central Labor Union at a meeting at which Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, charged the attorney general with violating the law in seeking an injunction against striking railway workers.

Support also was pledged in the resolutions to the effort to bring about the impeachment of Daugherty. "That the department of justice may be purged and purified of an influence which has besmirched it and degraded it in the eyes of right-thinking men and women who know the facts."

How Do You Feel Today?

Conducted by The Public Health Center of Alameda County

1. What is tuberculosis?
A dangerous communicable disease which can be prevented.
2. Can tuberculosis occur in any part of the body?
Yes, in any part of the body.
3. What causes tuberculosis?
A germ, the tubercle bacillus.
4. How does a tuberculous person spread this germ?
Mainly in the sputum coughed up from the lungs.
5. How does one get tuberculosis?
By breathing or swallowing food (especially milk) containing tubercle bacilli. Moist spray from the nose and throat of others is to be especially avoided.
6. What is the most important thing to do to prevent tuberculosis from spreading?
To destroy at once by burning or disinfecting all sputa and other discharge from persons who have tuberculosis.
7. In what food is the tubercle germ most commonly found?
In milk.
8. How can milk be made safe to drink?
By pasteurizing or sterilizing it.
9. What five things are absolutely necessary to cure consumption?
The doctor, sunlight, outdoor air, nourishing food and rest.
10. Is there some patent medicine that will cure tuberculosis?
There is not; it is the wisest thing a consumptive can resort to.
11. At what age is tuberculosis most frequently acquired?
Most infections occur during the period of childhood. The disease may develop soon after the germ enters the system, but generally it lies dormant until some stress of life later breaks down our resistance and allows tuberculosis to develop.
12. What can a well person do to keep from getting tuberculosis?
Have plenty of sleep and rest, keep outdoors as much as possible, sleep with windows open, or better, on a screened porch, and eat regularly good, wholesome food.
13. What are the "danger signals" of which we should take notice?
Ill-nourishment and lack of growth in childhood, loss of strength, night-sweating, elevation of pulse and temperature, persistent cough.
14. What should a person do when he suspects that he or any member of his family has tuberculosis?
He should have a thorough medical examination.

The cash box in the Union oil service station at Clavement and College avenues was looted by burglars last night. The thieves took the receipt for Saturday and Sunday, which amounted to $182. Don't Envy Perfect Health—Enjoy It!

ARE you one of those unfortunate folks who is always envying the good health and happiness of others? Do you arise in the morning lame and stiff? Drag through the day with your back a dull, unceasing ache? Evening find you "all played out," thinking only of a little rest before tomorrow's weary grind? Do friends and family wonder why you are so discouraged and out of sorts? It's time, then, you were giving some attention to your kidneys! The kidneys, you know, are the blood-filters. Let them fall behind and the effect on blood and nerves is quickly apparent. Your back aches, you suffer, sharp, stabbing pains and feel dull, nervous, irritable and depressed. Your head aches, you are dizzy, and apt to be annoyed by bladder irregularities.

"Use Doan's," Say These Oakland Folks:

C. B. McCOMB, 1224 Fifty-third St., says: "My kidneys were affected and became weak and inflamed, resulting in a dull, dead feeling in my back, just as if there was a hot compress over my kidneys. This misery caused me to be tired and out of sorts generally. The use of Doan's Kidney Pills has always afforded relief and I have had results that have given me a high regard of the merit of Doan's."

MRS. HARRIET FOULKES, 1738 Thirty-fifth Ave., says: "I can give Doan's Kidney Pills the highest praise. I have used them for years. My kidneys were weak and if I overworked or took a cold it settled on my kidneys. Mornings I felt tired and dull and had no energy. My back ached considerably and I often had headaches. The action of my kidneys was irregular. A short use of Doan's Kidney Pills gave me quick relief and strengthened my back and kidneys."

RARE OLD COINS THIEF'S PREY AT CITY MUSEUM

A rare collection of antique United States coins was stolen yesterday afternoon from the Oakland Municipal Museum. The man who is believed to have been the thief was seen prowling in the building by Miss S. Mott, the custodian, when she opened the doors.

Miss Mott asked the man what he was doing in the building and he replied that he was an employee. When Miss Mott started to question him further he ran out the side door she had just opened. She then discovered that the coin case had been looted. In breaking the glass the burglar cut his hand. The police were notified, but could not find any trace of the thief. An entrance was gained by forcing a side window.

Mrs. Mabel Francis

"Tanlac helped me back to good health two years ago and I am still feeling fine," recently said Mrs. Mabel I. Francis, highly esteemed resident of 628 S. Linwood Ave., Baltimore, Maryland.

"Before taking the medicine I suffered from a nervous breakdown and was in an awful condition. I scarcely had strength and energy to handle a broom and my household duties.

"The first bottle of Tanlac made such a wonderful improvement in my condition that I was both surprised and delighted. So I stuck to it and a few bottles built me up ten pounds and made me feel as if I had never had a sick day. My health has been fine ever since."

NOTE—The International Proprietary Co., distributors of Tanlac, have on file in their offices at Atlanta, Georgia, over fifty thousand signed statements from representative men and women from every state in the Union and every Province of Canada. Many of these are from prominent people in this city and section and have been previously published in this paper.

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

SUCCESS AHEAD FOR EXPOSITION IS NOW CERTAIN

East Bay Manufacturers Are Deluged With Applications for Display Space.

With space in the second annual Eastbay Manufacturers Exposition being taken up rapidly the success of the show which will put the industrial wealth of the Eastbay on display is assured, according to Roland L. Oliver, chairman of the executive committee of manufacturers directing the exposition.

The exposition is now only thirteen days away. It will be held at Idora Park. The opening date is Saturday, October 14, and the closing time Sunday night, October 22.

The largest exposition held obtainable on the coast has been obtained. This will practically cover the big outdoor stadium at Idora. The stadium also will have a wooden flooring, comprising more than 65,000 feet of lumber. In this way the displays of the exhibitors will be fully protected.

Hundreds of inquiries from outside points have been received by the committee in charge, asking details of the show. A number of outside manufacturing concerns have sought to obtain space, but the management has turned them down on the ground that this "show is for Eastbay manufacturers for the benefit of Eastbay residents."

Beginning with "Candy Day," which falls on October 14, special days will be held throughout the exposition. The manufacturers are planning to give away quantities of products to visitors each day.

Altogether the second annual Eastbay Manufacturers' Exposition is attracting widespread attention.

OX-CART TRAVEL START ENDS IN AIRSHIP FLIGHT

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Ezra Meeker, 82 years old, who traveled from Indianapolis to Seattle, Wash., 70 years ago behind a team of oxen, today recounted how he flew across the state of Washington at a mile a minute a short time ago.

Meeker, more familiarly known as "Uncle Ezra," is attending the American Electric railway convention here.

A bicycle, 57 inches high, was ridden by William Meeker from Indianapolis to Chicago, and is one of the exhibits of obsolete means of transportation in the exposition held in connection with the convention.

Other exhibits include "Ben Haliday, No. 14," a bullet-proof mail coach drawn by four horses, that carried Brigham Young's wives from Salt Lake City to Sacramento, Cal. This coach has been held up seventeen times by "Black Bart."

Hospital Steward Hurt Aiding Patient

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Steward J. C. Black of the Central Emergency hospital has spent a decade in the service but today was the first time that he was ever a patient. He was forced to inscribe his own name in the register after undergoing treatment as the result of a peculiar accident.

Black was dressing the wound of a patient and reached for a bottle of lysol. It exploded and he was burned about the eyes. He remained to finish out his watch until relieved at 8 o'clock.

LASTING PEACE ON COAL SCALE AIM OF PARLEY

Miners and Operators Meet at Cleveland to Put End to Strikes in Future.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 2.—Blumhouse coal operators and miners assembled here today in an effort to prevent future strikes. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, headed the miners' representatives. The meeting, provided for the peace terms of the August 15 settlement which ended the strike, had these three purposes:

1. Naming of a joint committee to investigate the coal industry generally.
2. Naming of a joint committee to formulate methods for negotiating a new wage scale, to be effective when the present agreement expires March 31, 1923.
3. To determine procedure for the joint committee of inquiry so that its work will not conflict with the coal commission to be appointed by President Harding for a probe of the coal industry.

RAILMEN BEGIN NEW WAGE TALKS

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Negotiations for new wage and working agreements with the western railroads were begun today at a conference of a committee of the general managers' association and W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors.

W. M. Jeffers, general manager of the Union Pacific, headed the committee which represented the principal lines west of the Mississippi river. The negotiations were started last February, but discontinued in May pending meeting of the "Big Four" brotherhoods and the shophmen's strike, which began July 1. Messrs. Lee and Sheppard have reached agreements with the principal eastern roads, and while neither of them nor Jeffers would make any prediction as to the outcome of the conference here there was no indication that an agreement would not be reached promptly.

All parties to the conference said there would be no announcement of the progress of the negotiations before night.

Kellogg's KRUMBLES

SHREDDED

The Spirit of Old College Days!

It's a wonderful thing for women and men to "carry age" gracefully; to retain mental keenness through physical fitness! Compare such women and men with puny, faded examples of humanity! Did you ever consider that these rugged folks came by their health largely through childhood food—food that made red blood and bone and muscle! Health was built into their systems!

Don't let your children grow up puny, undersized weaklings through eating denatured, bleached-out foods! Protect these little folks with Kellogg's whole-wheat KRUMBLES— with the full, delicious whole-wheat flavor for the first time!

KRUMBLES will build strong bodies; KRUMBLES will make red blood and bone and muscle and rugged constitutions! Because KRUMBLES, with every atom of whole wheat, contain every food element that the human body needs!

KRUMBLES renew the strength of men and women who do the world's work! KRUMBLES provide food that sustains the aged as nothing else can! All grocers sell KRUMBLES.

The only whole-wheat food with a delicious flavor!

TEN ARRESTED AS RESULT OF TAXICAB RIOT

One Man Also in Hospital
After Free-for-All on O'Farrell Street.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Julian Wellmont, 451 Linden street, is at the Central Emergency hospital suffering from several fractured ribs and other injuries today as a result of a free-for-all fight between taxicab drivers, Powell and O'Farrell streets yesterday. The fight is said to be a renewal of San Francisco's taxicab war.

After clubs and weapons of various descriptions had been wielded by the combatants eleven men were placed under arrest and are being held in the city prison pending an investigation.

The fight is said to have started when several men attacked Wellmont, a starter for the California Taxicab Company, in his office at 163 O'Farrell street. A crowd gathered and several bystanders are said to have joined forces with the men who attacked the cab starter. Wellmont was struck down by a heavy "no parking" sign during the general mix-up.

At 10:15 p. m. of 459 Howe street, later identified as Wellmont's assailant, was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Others arrested and booked on battery and malicious mischief charges were: Walter de Barbelben, 1751 Fulton street; Thomas Mills, 459 Howe street; Albert Crothers, 1128 Buchanan street; Daniel Johnson, 572 Linden avenue; James Norton, 47 Crocker street; Roy Haverly, 1301 Lyon street; Peter Pianezzi, 613 Redwood avenue; Harold Wallace, 56 Castro street; and Richard Heslin, 435 Hayes street.

DRY FORCE WILL REFUSE TO VOTE ON WINES, BEER

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—The Anti-Saloon League will call upon its members and all those favoring prohibition to refrain from participating in any way in the vote on light wines and beer at the election this fall, F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Illinois State Anti-Saloon League, has announced. McBride's announcement was contained in a statement commenting on the opinion of Attorney-General Brundage that the Secretary of state would be obliged to place on the ballot the issue, which those favoring light wines and beer declare to be merely an expression of the desire of the electorate which will not in any way change existing laws.

Maintaining that there can be no reference on the question of obedience to law, McBride said that, "Nobody can hinder the expression of opinion, but a referendum is not now the way to settle the question of wine and beer." The petition asking for a vote as an expression of opinion on the issue was signed by more than 500,000 persons, according to its proponents.

Why Pretty Teeth

Are shown everywhere today

Look about you. Note how many teeth now glisten. Note how people show them as they never did before.

Millions of people are brushing teeth in a new way. If you don't know the good results, make this free test.

Fight dingy film

One object is to fight the film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats film. So, under old methods, beautiful teeth were seen less often than today.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Very few people escaped such troubles under old ways of teeth cleaning.

Then dental science found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then dentists everywhere began to advise their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. In that tooth paste are embodied those two great film combatants.

Five effects

But Pepsodent brings five effects. These are very important. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to constantly neutralize the acids which cause decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those are Nature's ever-present tooth-protecting agents. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold effect.

Pepsodent also polishes the teeth so film adheres less readily.

New ways found

Then dental science found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then dentists everywhere began to advise their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. In that tooth paste are embodied those two great film combatants.

BOOSTER CROWD READY TO MOVE ON SACRAMENTO

Oakland Business Delegates
Will Visit Many Towns
Throughout Valley.

All set for the Sacramento Valley.

After a week's preparation, plans for the Sacramento Valley trip of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce were complete today and at 7:30 tomorrow morning the Oakland boosters will be on their way.

One hundred and fifty business men, a band and a wild "orrib" will make up the party that is to carry Oakland's greetings to the neighbors on the north.

A special train consisting of five Pullmans, two diners, a baggage car and an observation coach, labeled "Oakland Chamber of Commerce Special" will carry the boosters. They will drive on the train throughout the four days of the trip. Twelve stops are arranged for the party in the twelve principal valley cities, at each of which special entertainment has been provided including smorgasbords, dinners and automobile trips.

From each of the valley cities will come telegrams giving assurance that Oakland representatives will be welcome and telling of preparations for their reception.

In the majority of the towns the boosters will parade the principal streets with their band and "orrib" (burro spelled backwards) at the head of the procession. The burro, which is being carried as a mascot, has had an elaborate costume prepared for him and he will have the double duty of playing the part of mascot and leader.

The train leaves sixteenth street station at 7:30 in the morning. Breakfast will be served on the train and all those making the trip are expected to have their first community meal at the train pulls towards its first stop in Oroville.

Wage Award Before Rail Union Meeting

DETROIT, Oct. 2.—The convention of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railroad Shop Laborers, that opened here today, promises to be one of the most important ever held by the organization, according to leaders of the union. They expect during the two weeks' meeting to receive for ratification or rejection the decision of the railroad labor board on the wage scale of the 400,000 workers reported by the Brotherhood to be out of work.

Reconsider its previous decision when the members of the union were persuaded to remain at their posts during the shop craft strike.

Girls Ask Drug Cure;
Sent to Sonoma Farm

A chance to cure themselves of the drug habit was given today to two young women who surrendered themselves to T. J. McInerney, an inspector of the State Board of Pharmacy, when Police Judge Edward J. Tyndal sentenced them to sentences of from six months to five years.

The young women are May West and Marie Foster. They both pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy. They were given indeterminate sentences of from six months to five years.

N. E. A. Convention Secured For Oakland

Superintendent of Schools Fred M. Hunter returned today from Washington, D. C., where he was in charge of securing the 1923 convention of the National Educational Association for Oakland. His trip was a short one, barely two weeks, during which time he attended the meeting of the executive council of the association and obtained the ratification of the choice of Oakland as the convention city.

Blanks Everett of the Chamber of Commerce, who went East with Hunter, is still in the East.

Becomes Grecian Queen

QUEEN ELIZABETH, beautiful wife of George, new king of Greece, is a Rumanian princess. Her husband has been recognized in accession to the throne, following an insurrection which caused his father, Alexander, to abdicate.

Professor's Wife Tells Why She Has Retained Her Maiden Name

Here are the main points in the argument of Miss Phyllis Ackerman, doctor of philosophy, art authority, and wife of Professor Arthur Upson Pope, in favor of a married woman's refusing to take the name of her husband, as she has stated them to THE TRIBUNE:

The taking of a man's name by a woman is a symbol, carried over from feudal times, of her merging her individuality with his, and becoming economically and personally dependent upon him.

In doing this she throws away whatever prestige she has managed to attach to her own name, throws away the public's conception of her as an individual and also throws away, to a large extent, her own respect for her own individuality.

For the woman who is resolved to create a place of her own in the world of art, or in the professional or business world, and to be an individual just as men are individuals, the only sensible course is to retain the name by which she has always been known, and to refuse to substitute that of another person, even though he may be her husband.

Four-fifths of the professional women in New York today are using their own names, even though they may be married. In one leading women's club there is not a single "Mrs." although most of them are married.

Soon every woman except those who intend to remain economic dependents, will insist on retaining her own name after marriage. Even now most of the late are only waiting for the example to be set by a few persons in their own immediate neighborhoods before they follow suit.

EASTBAY WOMEN FROWN ON WIFE RETAINING NAME

Ackerman-Pope Plan of Marriage Brings Much Criticism, Much Praise.

not seem to be worth while. When a man and woman marry they form a new partnership giving to each a new status in the community life. That status should be designated to make the position of each understood. One name makes the position of the child also better understood. In the Pan-American conference of women this summer, certain South American countries reported that the woman retained her name with the prefix "Mrs." and designation of "wife" following her marriage and that children took the surnames of both.

The question seems immaterial. The decision rests with the individuals. If satisfactory to them it should be quite as satisfactory to the public. Retaining the name under which she has become known and adding the husband's name seems a satisfactory arrangement.

Mrs. Elizabeth MacGibbon, advertising expert and business woman: I am old-fashioned enough to prefer that a woman assume the husband's name. She who has a title of "Dr." may do many things an average woman may not do. However, it depends on whether she is established when she marries and what she may lose by sinking her identity.

If a woman is successful the name by which she is known will not matter greatly. There seems to be no more reason why a woman should give up a name than the man. The question of professional goodwill and the consideration of changed name is to be considered economically, of course. Socially, and so far as the children are concerned, there is much to be proved as to what effect retaining a maiden name by the mother may have and what results may be gained.

Mrs. C. R. Rellly, president of the Business and Professional Women's club:

"There's only one of two things possible for any woman—either marries a profession or she marries a husband. If she does not want to recognize all that goes with a marriage vow she should never have married. If she loves her profession more than her husband she should have been strong enough to cling to her work unhampered by marriage ties. If she really loves her husband she will be glad to share his name. Most marriages founded on these so-called 'new' ideas end in failure. It has been proven conclusively. We don't want marriages that are not fully regular in every way. A woman should take her choice once and for all time and then cling to her decision. No man wants to play second fiddle indefinitely. It may go all right as a novelty, but he won't endure it long."

Mrs. Gilbert Moyle, Berkeley, singer, who gave up a professional career following her marriage:

"If a woman has made a name for herself in any chosen work then her name is part of her capital, and she should certainly retain it regardless of marriage. If she has not achieved fame then there is nothing in particular gained by her refusal to accept her husband's name. In fact there is every advantage on this second score of her sharing her husband's name with him."

Miss Agnes Polsdorfer, deputy district attorney of Alameda county—Why shouldn't a woman take the man's name—and retain her independence too? It's bound to cause a lot of confusion if women and their husbands go by different names. The important thing is that a woman should keep her own individuality, and her independence, just as Miss Ackerman urges, but I don't think she has to reject her husband's name in order to do that. Not modern women, anyway.

Miss Eloise B. Cushing, attorney-at-law, clubwoman and county law librarian—Why wouldn't every necessary purpose be achieved by using both names, with a hyphen? Of course, I don't think there is any strong reason why a woman who really wants to keep her own name after marriage shouldn't do it—but I don't think there is any great reason why most women will ever want to. The best way, it seems to me, is for a woman simply to add her husband's name to her own. That way, there is no loss of identity, and it avoids the confusion of having two different names in each family. May E. Wilkins lost none of her popularity or individuality as an author when she became Mary E. Wilkins Freeman.

Shaft of Argonaut
Mine Under Repair

JACKSON, Oct. 2.—Work of repairing the shaft of the Argonaut mine, which was destroyed by fire, was begun this morning. Company officials say that the work will take two months, as nearly 1200 feet are to be rebuilt. The adjoining Kennedy mine has resumed underground production.

Newark Resident

NEWARK, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Mary Dutra, who has been visiting in Mexico at the Stanley Leonard home for two weeks, returned Saturday. Her son, John E. Dutra, went to Modesto to accompany her home.

MEXICO ADOPTS GARRISON POLICY TO HALT REVOLT

Insurrection at Juarez to Be Followed by Court Martial of Mutineers.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 2.—In consequence of yesterday's revolt at Juarez, which is now regarded as suppressed, the war office has determined to adopt a policy of changing garrisons at all border cities every three months, as a precautionary measure against further uprisings. This has been decided upon as it is believed the troops stationed at border cities are subjected to extremely insidious propaganda directed from the North American side of the border.

Secretary of War Zerrano expressed surprise at the defection of any portion of the Forty-third battalion, as it has an enviable fighting record.

Despatches received here say the rebels have been scattered. Several scores were made prisoner and numerous others surrendered their arms and asked clemency.

SEARCH FOR MUTINOUS CAPTAIN.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 2.—Federal authorities on both sides of the border are searching for Captain Feliciano Valverde, leader of the revolt of the Forty-third regiment in Juarez Saturday morning, which was smashed by General J. J. Mendez, garrison commander.

Belief that he had escaped to El Paso, where, it is said, he has friends and relatives, was strengthened when three horses taken from the regimental stable by Captain Valverde were found at 11 o'clock this morning. One of the horses was again being advanced seven numbers and being promoted to rear admiral June 15, 1902.

In the Pan-American war Captain Clark left San Francisco aboard the Oregon March 19 and reported to Admiral Sampson at Santiago de Cuba June 3. Admiral Eberle, who now commands the Pacific fleet, was a lieutenant aboard the Oregon at that time and commanded the forward turret at the battle of Santiago.

Besides his widow and his daughter, Mrs. Hughes, Admiral Clark is survived by another daughter, Mrs. S. S. Robinson, wife of Rear Admiral Robinson, naval governor of the republic of Santo Domingo; and a granddaughter, the daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Mary Louise Nimitz, wife of Lieutenant Odo Nimitz, on duty aboard the battleship Wyoming, with the Atlantic fleet.

Japanese Ship At Astoria Dock Afire

ASTORIA, Ore., Oct. 2.—Fire broke out today in the bunkers of the Japanese steamer Elma Maru, which is moored at the Port of Astoria docks here.

The local fire department was called upon for assistance. The blaze is still smoldering but is not expected to result in material damage to the vessel.

Ticket Numbers Are Announced

The automobile committee of the Baby Hospital Association, including Oliver Kehrlein, A. W. Widen and K. A. Stephenson, announced the following numbers of admission tickets: 10269, 7700 16556, 14638.

First Court-Martial

The first formal court-martial proceeding in connection with the revolt began yesterday. First Sergeant Francisco Castro was the accused. He was charged with failure to perform his duty. He is in command of the guard at the barracks when the uprising occurred.

General Martinez said that it was believed that only 100 men of the 43d regiment revolted.

Revolutionists on the American side of the border have planned to send an expedition into Chihuahua, southeast of Juarez, early this morning. Mexican federal authorities said. The plans were known. The insurgents, well equipped, were to have crossed at 4 a. m. But the revolt of 150 men of the 43d regiment in Juarez prompted United States agents to move swiftly to round up the alleged plotters in El Paso.

Mexican federal authorities declared they believed the garrison revolt and the plans of the El Paso revolutionists had no connection.

Three alleged "raters" taken with the revolutionists were executed in the second patio Saturday morning. Many could see them fall. All heard the reports of the rifles in the hands of the firing squad.

Boy Invents Plan
to Halt Forgeries

An Oakland school boy, Raymond Norton, student of Lakewood school, has submitted a novel idea to the newly organized Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, soon to open its doors in the remodeled portion of the Athens Hotel.

The boy suggests that the photograph of the man or woman issuing checks be engraved on the upper left-hand corner of the check. In this way, the bank would have a double method of checking the genuineness of the checks issued. The photograph and the signature would be an absolute check against forgery, he holds.

S. E. Biddle, president of the bank, who received the letter incorporating Raymond's idea, says the plan is excellent but impracticable.

Pastor, Family Get
Quigley Estate

Rev. Arthur H. Briggs, former Berkeley pastor, his wife, Jennie Briggs and his sister-in-law, Sara Foster Briggs, will receive the bulk of the $60,000 estate of the late Mrs. Mary Quigley, former prominent resident of Berkeley, according to the terms of her will, which was filed today for probate in the superior court.

Under the terms of the will Mary Quigley, of Berkeley, and Fanny Pirth, of Hayward, are given a bequest of $500 and the sum of $1000 goes to the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Berkeley. The residue of the estate is divided among the three above named. Rev. Briggs is named as executor of the estate, to serve without bonds.

Rear Admiral C. E. Clark, Of 'Oregon' Fame, Is Dead

Commander of Ship Making Historic Spanish War Voyage Succumbs

LONG BEACH, Oct. 2.—Rear Admiral Charles E. Clark, who, then a captain, commanded the battleship Oregon on its famous voyage from San Francisco to Key West and later in the battle of Santiago, July 3, 1898, in the Spanish-American war, died at the home of his daughter here late yesterday. He was 79 years old.

Admiral Clark, who retired from active service in 1905 and later came from Washington, D. C., to reside with his daughter, Mrs. Charles F. Hughes, wife of the present commander of the seventh battle division of the Pacific fleet, had been in apparently excellent health up to September 22, last, on that date he suffered an attack of heart trouble, which grew gradually worse. Rear Admiral and Mrs. Hughes were with him when he died.

Funeral services for the famous naval officer will be attended by only intimate friends of the family. They will be held at the Hughes residence here at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Admiral E. V. Eberle, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, and other high officials will attend.

Rear Admiral Clark was born August 10, 1843, at Bradford, Vt., and graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis in time to serve during the Civil war, at the battle of Mobile Bay and the capture of Fort Morgan in 1864. He saw varied naval service from that time until the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, when he and the battleship Oregon both became famous for their record-breaking voyage around the Horn.

For eminent and conspicuous conduct in the battle of Santiago he was advanced six numbers in rank, later again being advanced seven numbers and being promoted to rear admiral June 15, 1902.

In the Spanish-American war Captain Clark left San Francisco aboard the Oregon March 19 and reported to Admiral Sampson at Santiago de Cuba June 3. Admiral Eberle, who now commands the Pacific fleet, was a lieutenant aboard the Oregon at that time and commanded the forward turret at the battle of Santiago.

Besides his widow and his daughter, Mrs. Hughes, Admiral Clark is survived by another daughter, Mrs. S. S. Robinson, wife of Rear Admiral Robinson, naval governor of the republic of Santo Domingo; and a granddaughter, the daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Mary Louise Nimitz, wife of Lieutenant Odo Nimitz, on duty aboard the battleship Wyoming, with the Atlantic fleet.

First Court-Martial

The first formal court-martial proceeding in connection with the revolt began yesterday. First Sergeant Francisco Castro was the accused. He was charged with failure to perform his duty. He is in command of the guard at the barracks when the uprising occurred.

General Martinez said that it was believed that only 100 men of the 43d regiment revolted.

Revolutionists on the American side of the border have planned to send an expedition into Chihuahua, southeast of Juarez, early this morning. Mexican federal authorities said. The plans were known. The insurgents, well equipped, were to have crossed at 4 a. m. But the revolt of 150 men of the 43d regiment in Juarez prompted United States agents to move swiftly to round up the alleged plotters in El Paso.

Mexican federal authorities declared they believed the garrison revolt and the plans of the El Paso revolutionists had no connection.

Three alleged "raters" taken with the revolutionists were executed in the second patio Saturday morning. Many could see them fall. All heard the reports of the rifles in the hands of the firing squad.

Boy Invents Plan
to Halt Forgeries

An Oakland school boy, Raymond Norton, student of Lakewood school, has submitted a novel idea to the newly organized Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, soon to open its doors in the remodeled portion of the Athens Hotel.

The boy suggests that the photograph of the man or woman issuing checks be engraved on the upper left-hand corner of the check. In this way, the bank would have a double method of checking the genuineness of the checks issued. The photograph and the signature would be an absolute check against forgery, he holds.

S. E. Biddle, president of the bank, who received the letter incorporating Raymond's idea, says the plan is excellent but impracticable.

Pastor, Family Get

Rev. Arthur H. Briggs, former Berkeley pastor, his wife, Jennie Briggs and his sister-in-law, Sara Foster Briggs, will receive the bulk of the $60,000 estate of the late Mrs. Mary Quigley, former prominent resident of Berkeley, according to the terms of her will, which was filed today for probate in the superior court.

Under the terms of the will Mary Quigley, of Berkeley, and Fanny Pirth, of Hayward, are given a bequest of $500 and the sum of $1000 goes to the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Berkeley. The residue of the estate is divided among the three above named. Rev. Briggs is named as executor of the estate, to serve without bonds.

LASH OF TURKS ADDS HORRORS FOR REFUGEES

American Woman Describes Atrocities Alleged Enacted in Smyrna.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2 (By Associated Press).—"The cries of the Christian refugees of Smyrna for water and food are made by a Turkish lash," said Dr. Esther Lovejoy of New York, who has returned here after a week's survey in the stricken city. Mrs. Lovejoy declared that the world has not been told the real story of fire and horror. "There are still several hundred thousand Christians in Smyrna and the interior whose lives are in peril, for the time limit of the evacuation has expired," she said. "Only providence knows what their fate will be. The crowds on the quay are so great that some of them are pushed into the sea. Women stand waist deep in the water holding their babies up in their arms to save them from drowning."

SYSTEMATIC ROBBERY.

Turkish soldiers are systematically robbing the men and wrenching rings from women's fingers. The wretched sufferers are willing to be robbed if the robbery can purchase life.

"At night the Turkish soldiers commit excesses against women and girls. Only when searchlights from the ships in the harbor are turned on them do they desist. In terror of the Turks, the refugees are packed in thousands in front of the American consulate."

Dr. Lovejoy said that a Turkish soldier, mistaking her for a Greek woman, struck her heavily with the butt-end of a rifle and left a mark. This soldier was about to strike her again when an American officer intervened.

HORRORS ENACTED.

An officer, asserted Dr. Lovejoy, witnessed a Greek woman cut her throat and then hurl herself into the water and drown. Americans at home, she said, could not begin to visualize the terrible anguish of the refugees as their loved ones were torn from them. Children are being separated from their mothers and their fathers sent into the interior. Refugees were being sent away must pass through a series of gates, she said. Dr. Lovejoy described how at each gate the refugees were stripped of all their belongings, including their money and their clothing. In some cases the women were forced to undress, so that they could not take any funds with them.

McGRAW, RUTH WRITE FIRST WORLD SERIES ARTICLES

VERNON TIGERS GAIN FULL GAME ON SEALS BY DEFEATING SEATTLE INDIANS BOTH GAMES

McGraw's Tips Will Not Help, Says Bambino

Home Run Slugger Thinks Giant Leader Is Given Too Much Credit.

By Babe Ruth, Home Run Star of Champion Yankees.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Just a year ago I attempted some world series prophesying that made me look had as a guesser. Now that the Red Sox nightmare has passed and as we are ready to start all over against the Giants I repeat my last year's statement. I believe the Yankees are going to win this world series and the result will leave no doubts. This year I've got it straight. It doesn't take much figuring. A year ago the two clubs were about on a par in all-around strength. Personally I thought the Yankees had the edge, but we lost. In the year that has passed the Giants have lost strength and the Yankees have greatly improved. I think that is pretty generally admitted and no better indication of the outcome is necessary.

Along in April I hope to see the new Yankee stadium dedicated with the unveiling of a world series championship banner. The owners of the Yankee club have risked a fortune and taken much criticism in their efforts to give the American League the equal of the Giants, and for many years the Giants have been the class, you can't take that away from them.

But—as they were saying down in St. Louis a few weeks ago—"the Tanks are coming and the two clubs are about to reach their goal in baseball."

From this line of thought one might think I have an idea that all we have to do is go out to the Polo Grounds and wait for the Giants to curl up. Don't you believe it. I don't. We are going to have a good hot fight on our hands, but I'll say that three-day preliminary down in St. Louis was as tough as I'll ever expect to see. The Giants haven't got a Sister. They haven't got a Williams. And they certainly haven't got the pitching that was sent against us by the Browns.

SPEAKS OF McGRAW.

Yes, they've got Manager McGraw, in many ways a class by himself. I respect his great record as much as any fan or expert in the country. But here's something important to remember—Mr. McGraw just sits on the bench. Like Manager Huggins, or Connie Mack.

The nearest Manager McGraw ever comes to the ball is when it rolls into the dugout. Yet, all we heard last year and this year is "Look out for McGraw." But all he will do is flash signals and give instructions.

What good did it do last year. In the first two games? McGraw kept flashing signals and yet the Giants couldn't make a single run in the first twenty innings.

If Neuse and Kelly are told to "hit it a mile" and Bob Shawkey proceeds to strike them out, instructions from the bench won't help. If Frank Frisch gets the word to "go down" and Wally Schang makes a perfect peg to Ward-Frisch is out of luck. Or if Neft is told to cut the inside corner and Bob Neuse hammers the ball out of the lot—Neft is liable to receive more criticism regarding "the shovers." In other words this world's series is going to be one of the home plate. The Giants bench is southwest. The team that gets the most runs and not the most instructions will win the most games. I am not criticizing manager McGraw's methods because, in the first place I don't pretend to understand them. But I do want to get over this idea—all the talk about Giant wizardry and trick stuff does not phase the American league champion. Fifteen minutes in the Yankees clubhouse any day the past three weeks would prove that.

HUGGINS HAS TRICKS. McGraw and Huggins use distinct systems. Both win pennants. That makes both systems good, but Huggins has been through many hot campaigns in both major leagues and don't think he hasn't shown us a few tricks of his own. Pitching and batting will tell the final tale. The advantage in pitching is clearly in favor of the Yankees. Under the circumstances, the Giants might have the edge in club

THE YANKEES' PAIR OF WILLING WALLIES

Here are a pair of Wallies who will be heard from in the world series games. On the left is WALLIE SCHANG, the man who is considered to give the Yanks the edge in the catching department. On the right is WALLIE PIPP, first sacker and cleanup hitter. He hit .328 during the season and is considered one of the most valuable men in the game.

ABE MITCHELL WINS SOUTHERN GOLF TOURNEY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 2.—Abe Mitchell of England won the open championship of the Southern Golf Association here yesterday in a play-off with Leo Diegel of New Orleans, with whom he was tied yesterday after 72 holes of play.

Yesterday's struggle went 39 holes when Diegel again tied the winner. Mitchell played five and it was decided to play three more holes in an effort to decide the contest.

Repeating his performance of Saturday Diegel again yesterday tied Mitchell's score of 146 for 98 holes on the home green by shooting a birdie four after going to the afternoon round four strokes down to the Englishman and at one time on the third hole of the outward nine—being six strokes behind.

Santa Rosa High Wins From Richmond 6 to 0

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 2.—Coach Morris Kirksey of the Santa Rosa High school, scored the first victory in his coaching career when the local high school team defeated the Richmond High squad by a score of 6 to 0.

The winning touchdown was made the third quarter Moore. Santa Rosa halfback, carried the ball over the goal line for two more touchdowns which were allowed because one of his teammates were off side.

The Santa Rosa players kept the Richmond players on the defense throughout the game.

Dr. Weider Winner On Del Monte Links

DEL MONTE, Oct. 2.—Dr. J. B. Weider defeated J. L. F. Morrison in the Olympic Club Golf tournament here yesterday, 4 and 3. Weider defeated George H. Mullin, 3 and 2, and Morrison defeated J. J. Fitzpatrick 2 up in the semi-finals.

batting, but with us hitting against a weakened staff, and McGraw's club going against Bush, Shawkey, Jones, Hoyt and Mays, I think the Yankees have the inside track. One claim to risk my reputation as a prophet, I pick the Yanks to win by at least two games.

Dempsey Left Out in Cold; No Opponents

Carpenter Last Hope of the Champion to Add to His Bankroll.

By BOB SHAND

Shed another tear for J. Harrison Dempsey if you've any left following the deluge over Carpenter's defeat. No heavyweight champion in the history of this game ever played in such tough luck as is being experienced by Dempsey. The big fellow is so good that the boxing commission won't let him fight the many challengers and the foreign crop represented by Carpenter disappeared last Sabbath.

The sole remaining hope of the Kearns-Dempsey combination was Harry Wills. They thought there might be a chance of staging this one in Canada or Mexico or some other place where State governors chirked not, but after the terrible showing of Wills against Clem Johnson last Friday night the colored chap is out of the running altogether.

The Johnson party never was a regular fighter. He has been picked and beaten around the country for a decade picking up a hundred here and a hundred there and a quarter there for boxing fourth raters like himself and he goes eleven and a fraction rounds with Wills.

JOHNSON POOR FIGHTER.

According to all accounts, Johnson came up for each round with only a prayer that he would not be knocked cold during the next three minutes. He knows nothing about leading, he knows nothing about a counter if he saw one outside of a grocery store and his speed and footwork were both negligible quantities in his scrap with Wills.

In order to remain in the limelight Wills should have knocked Johnson to sleep in the opening round. If Harry was the fighter the press agents have him cracked up to be he would have fainted and then leveled. They can't make the claim that he wanted to give the customers a run for their money as both Wills and his manager, Paddy Mullins, knew the possibility of a Dempsey match hinged on the outcome. It was apparently a simple case of lack of ability on the part of the alleged "Panther"—a lack of ability that has been proclaimed before in these columns.

SIKI NOT FORTUNABLE.

What's Dempsey going to do now? Battling Siki figures to get goaled a few minutes after he picks up his hands against Crab, Bibb, or even Ed Norfolk. There isn't a chance of shooting the Senegalese in against the champion yet and the odds will be waiting what Siki is not fed a set-up in his first American appearance.

At the meantime Dempsey has returned from a moose hunt and is now going on a dough hunt, but scarce as moose are, the jack is scarce for the champion right now. He hates the idea of waving his hands and he can't get over and the odds are paise.

All the big fellow can do is spend money, and they say he is making a pretty fair job of that.

Cliff Kramer entertained a big crowd at his Alameda training quarters yesterday and the fans who attended the boxing machine leaves a good time when the pair clash at the Auditorium Wednesday evening. Kramer gained a lot of confidence when he flattened big Harrison Hunter and he claims another punch of the same kind ready for Mister Reeves. Jack is not worrying. The harder they hit the better he likes it.

Jimmy Dundee, a manager of Frankie Murphy declares his middleweight will flatten Ray Pelkey when the pair mingle in the special event. Murphy has shown improvement in the gymnasium and is hitting harder. Pelkey is again being trained by Bert McClelland.

The Wallace-McCann and the London-Gruman matches look like the real choice morsels on an excellent card.

C. De Wet, a local electrician is willing to invent a revolving ring if Tommy Simpson will use it.

Simpson probably won't, but the referee has a desire of getting as dizzy as some of the four-rounders already are.

California Soccer Interclass Starts

The first games of the inter-class series in the Soccer play at California were played last Saturday with the Freshmen a winner 1-0 over the Sophomores in a close and hotly-contested game, while the Juniors had an easy time defeating the Seniors, 4-0.

The finals between the Freshmen and the Juniors will be played tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock, according to Manager E. D. Honeycutt, in charge of the teams.

Much good material has been developed for the team that will represent California in the University and club league by the games of this intra-mural series.

Maybe Georges Looked in Mirror Too Much

Here is the last picture of the GORGEOUS GEORGES, taken just before his fight in France, with Siki. He is seen primping before a mirror, preparing for his appearance before the Cooper-Ewitts. Had he been in his training quarters instead, his stinging defeat may not have occurred. Now Carpenter, with his classic map all mussed up, is hardly an asset for his English producer, J. Stuart Blackton, and besides he is nursing a desire for revenge and he demands a return match with Siki. This time he will probably spend most of his time getting into the pink of condition, instead of looking to see if he has too much powder on. —From Keystone View Co.

GOLF

By W. D. McNICOLL

E. J. Hadden in defeating Dr. J. H. Stinemman yesterday in the semi-final of the Sequoyah Club championship, performed a feat that many of his golfing friends feared he was unable to accomplish. Mike is always dangerous when he is up against players of championship caliber. Dr. C. H. Walter, who has had the upper hand over most of the Sequoyah players for several years, always had trouble before he was through with Hadden. In his game yesterday he was always dangerous on the putting greens and few players can equal Hadden in playing recovery shots from the rough. Dr. Stinemman took the lead at the second hole with a birdie three, only to lose it at the fourth. Only three holes were halved during the entire match. Holes were won by each alternately, and the match was all over with four holes to go. The doctor won the fifteenth and was one up and three to go, a comfortable position to be in, but Mike held a long putt for a birdie four at the pond hole for a win, and then drove to the edge of the green at the short seventeenth, while a man was trapped in the ditch under the water pipe, but lying good and preferred to take a chance rather than drop back, but the pipe deflected his shot and this cost him the hole.

One up and one to go Hadden played safe for a half, while his opponent had to take a chance for a win, with the result that he over ran the hole and missed a half. J. H. L'Hommiedieu was out of town on business which necessitated a postponement of his semi-final match with Archie Andrew. These players have played two matches recently at Sequoyah and Claremont, in both of which Andrew had the better of L'Hommiedieu, but yesterday in a friendly game with Sandy Regan, Bob lack and another he showed a persistent tendency to pull which would have given his opponent a decided advantage. Bob Black in this match had a medal score of 80, which is good enough for most first flight players to accomplish.

The second flight matches resulted in easy victories for E. B. Blanton and George H. Dow. Blanton, who was conceding C. G. Knight 2 up had a medal score of 80, which is good enough for most first flight players to accomplish.

SISLER AND HORNSBY FINISH SEASON WITH .400 AVERAGES

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—George Sisler of the St. Louis Browns and Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals of the same city are respectively hitting .400 for the season. Sisler finished the season yesterday with a mark of .415, Hornsby with .401, the latter being the first National League player to hit over .400 since Ed Delahanty turned the trick twenty-three years ago.

By getting a hit yesterday, Ty Cobb is made by some statisticians to bat an even .400 for the season, tying the major league mark held by Jesse Burkett.

Other figures, however, have Cobb hitting under the .400 mark. The Georgian also tied Wagner's record of 1300 or better for seventeen seasons and more than 200 hits for eight seasons. The unofficial standing follows:

Geo. Dow, who has played consistently well throughout the tournament, scored a 716 victory over Dr. Aten. The winner wasted few putts on the green, while his opponent was leaving himself much to do from his approach putts and had failed to win a hole when the match was over at the twelfth.

The detailed scores were as follows: Championship Flight Semi-Finals—E. J. Hadden defeated Dr. J. H. Stinemman, 2 up; Archie Andrew versus J. H. L'Hommiedieu, postponed.

Second Flight Semi-Finals—H. B. Blanton (1) defeated C. G. Knight (0) 4-3; Geo. H. Dow (0) defeated Dr. R. R. Aten (0) 7-5.

SPECIAL CORPS OF EXPERT WRITERS TO COVER SERIES

In addition to the three regular press services, which will furnish THE TRIBUNE with a complete play-by-play of the world's series, a special corps of expert baseball writers will handle the story of the biggest event in baseball.

"Babe" Ruth, with whom TRIBUNE readers have become familiar during the season on account of his inside information of the doings in the major leagues, will cover the series regardless of whether the Yankees win or not.

John J. McGraw, manager of the National League champions, the Giant, will give a most complete account of the series as seen from the bench.

Henry L. Farrell and Davis J. Walsh, experts of baseball, will give the story of how the battle was won and lost, not only covering the technical side of the game, but presenting the many sidelights for which their stories are noted.

Do not fail to read THE TRIBUNE during the world series.

CALIFORNIA GAINED BY EXPERIENCE WITH SANTA CLARA ELEVEN

New Stars Discovered in Blue and Gold Backfield; Mell and Hufford Relieve Worries About Sub Ends

By DOUG. MONTELL

California profited by the experience with the Santa Clara eleven Saturday in the opening game of the season. There are more ways than one of viewing the outcome, for while many have manifested surprise that a team showing as little offensive football as did Santa Clara Saturday should score twice on the Bears, it should be taken into consideration that the Missionites did not score as a result of their own good playing but rather because of faults in the California kicking game. Santa Clara's offensive football, forward passes, end runs and line plays would never have taken them through to touchdowns and it is more than likely that they would have enjoyed a repetition of the first half during the latter stages of the game had the same active personnel been opposed to them.

But Andy Smith elected to experiment, discovered several things as a result of this and the two scores followed as a natural consequence of having inexperienced men in the backfield. Santa Clara accomplished as much in that one quarter as all teams accomplished during the entire 1921 season. Two blocked kicks was the entire quota last season and neither resulted in a touchdown, as did the two Saturday.

Line Material Looked Good.

The work on the tackles, Beam and Witter, was satisfactory. Beam can hardly be regarded as a newcomer as he was in practically every game last year at some time or other and has had sufficient experience under fire to be classed as a veteran. It was, however, Witter's first game under fire as a line-man and he made but one mistake that was obvious throughout the game. Getting down under punts as fast as the ends, Witter overtook one of the Nisbet's kicks before it had reached the receiver and followed the practice of previous years in stopping the forward progress of the ball when he overtook it. This gave a five-yard penalty under the new rules in effect this year.

Don Perry, made over from a fullback into a guard, was as cool as could be expected. A follow up charges that would do credit to Lee Cranmer, was in evidence and he showed that he has developed the art of protecting his own position to the satisfaction of all concerned.

New Backfield Men Were Stars.

THE WORK OF THE NEW BACKFIELD men, Spalding, Burgess and Evans, was obvious. It was the work of the linemen, unobscured by the vast majority of those who saw the California team in action for the first time, that was of greatest importance.

The line looked good. A total yardage of 73 yards was made by the offensive play by Santa Clara throughout the game, while during the four quarters the Santa Clara backs were hrowed for 47 yards in losses on attempted line plays and end runs.

Where they got away for one gain for 21 yards they were thrown for repeated losses on the flanks, despite the fact that Bob Berkeley was not playing the brand of football that characterized his great last season and that "Brick" Muller was sitting on the bench with an injured shoulder.

New material, Hufford, who played a sparkling game, and Mell, given his first chance in a varsity suit, looked good and relieved the worries of those who take the place of veterans in case of injury.

Many Duck Hunters in Northern Fields

WOODLAND, Oct. 2. — It is estimated that 2000 duck hunters passed through Woodland to the northern end of the state last Sunday morning. To make hunting better there was the first sprinkling of rain of the season. Many limit bags were reported, while there was hardly a huntsman who did not have some luck. The game in the rice belt is reported in all sections better and more plentiful than ever before. The birds are fat and lively, and hunting is more of a real sport this year than when the birds were sluggish and not migratory.

WHO'S WHO

JOHN FRANKLIN BAKER. Before Ruth's fame, known far and wide as the Home Run King because he won the 1911 world's series from the Giants by hitting homers of Marquard and Matty on successive days, winning both games. Is big at the end of his career and seldom appears in the Yankee lineup except as a pinch hitter.

Baker started playing professional ball with the Reading Club, of the old Tri-State League. In 1908, and made the major league rifle with the Athletics the same fall. With Eddie Collins, Barry and McInnes, was a member of the great infield Connie Mack gathered around him and kept intact until 1914, when the club was beaten four straight by the Braves in the world's series.

Had a salary difference with Mack and dropped out of baseball until 1915, when he was sold to the Yankees. He again retired in 1920 but returned last year.

Baker never hit below .300 in Philadelphia, but has fallen away in his stick work since joining the Yanks.

He was born in Trappe, MA, thirty-six years ago, bats left handed, throws right, weighs 175 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches in height.

HERE'S HOW WORLD SERIES MONEY WILL BE SPLIT UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Now comes the time when some baseball players won't regret having received a sheepskin and college degree. A huge melon, of greater circumference than any Alabama cotton picker ever dreamed, is about to be divided, and some are going to think that the carving knife slipped unless they employ the three R's.

From what once seemed a simple problem of division, the task of apportioning to all who get a share has expanded into a headache. No more will the recipient of a world's series check rush, with it down to the bank to hear the coins jingle in his pocket; he'll employ a certified accountant to certify that his per cent is the percentage that it should be.

The easiest way to figure it out is on the basis of $100. The first portion goes to the secretary-treasurer of the National Commissioner's office, probably to help pay the salary of Kenesaw M. Landis, as all highest. That's 15 per cent or $15 of the figurative 100 iron men. After that's salted the players come in.

Sixty per cent of the balance from the first four games" as the baseball law reads, "shall form a fund for the players of the competing teams and of the team finishing second and third, in their respective percentages, which shall be apportioned and distributed by the secretary-treasurer," etc.

Sixty per cent of the balance of $85 is $51. Of the $51, 75 per cent goes to the participants in the world's series. That is, $38.25 goes to both teams. Of this amount, sixty per cent or $22.95 goes to the winning club, and the other 40 per cent, or $15.30, to the losing club.

The other 25 per cent of the players' pool, which on the $100 basis would be $25.75, goes to the four clubs which finish second and third in their respective leagues. Of this amount, 60 per cent is paid to members of the two teams finishing second, and the other forty per cent to the two teams finishing third.

After all the players are paid, the remainder of the gross receipts go to the two clubs participating in the world series.

Card Eleven Scrimmaged In Week End

Doughty Returns to Form in Workout; Newcomers Are Given a Chance

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 2.—What appears to be approximately Andy Kerr's line-up for the Stanford-Olympic Club game Saturday appeared on the Card turf this morning following the selection of men after Saturday's scrimmage. All of Kerr's first squad, comprising forty men, got into the game last week-end and were given a chance to prove their abilities. The choice of the lot looks something like this:

Dole right end

Shipkey tackle

Hovick guard

De Groot center

Ludsko guard

Johnston tackle

Wheeler left end

Wheat quarterback

Cuddeback fullback

Wilcox halfback

Doughty halfback

Paul Murray injured his ankle again last week and was unable to get into Saturday's scrimmage. He looked to be a sure shot at half and probably will go back into the regular line-up as soon as his injuries permit. In his present condition, however, he cannot hope to compete with Doughty, who went wild against "Red" Betts' goofs. He got away for two touchdowns on two bucks through the center of the line both for about fifty yards in the first ten minutes of play. Kerr has put the bug of following interference in Doughty's ear at last and results are now beginning to show.

CRAVENS AT GUARD.

Bob Cravens went in at guard with Ludsko but was replaced on the third play because he got his head in the path of somebody's foot. Cravens' nose is not yet in the best of shape and every time he gets his head jarred he is not much good for a few minutes. It is thought, however, that he will be one of the guards to start against the Olympics.

Johnston and Shipkey stayed at tackle through the first team's period and practically clinched themselves a job for the opening game. As long as Houck and Paville stay over in the guards' lot, the present first team tackle combination is not in any danger.

Captain Dole did not get into the game. He stayed at Kerr's side, where he could get a few minutes of practice. With De Groot in the line it is hard to say what the first team would have done to the goofs. Doughty would probably have doubled his number of scores through center and the goofs would have been at a loss on the offensive. Aside from Doughty, Cuddeback did the best work in the backfield. He put over three 40-yard drops, kicks out of as many tries. Of course, he had a lot of protection in the front rank, but he managed to get the ball off the ground faster than the ordinary back. Cleveland showed well in the few punts he tried in the last period, averaging about 50 yards. Art Wilcox made consistent gains, but did not turn out to be so spectacular as Doughty.

STREET CAR COMES BACK.

Another sign of awakened prosperity: Electric railways, with receipts increasing and investors again buying securities, will spend $200,000,000 for equipment and supplies this year. According to Robert I. Todd, president of the American Electric Railway Association, this is twice the average annual expenditure for the last twenty years.

Todd presented the story of a better day for the electric lines at a recent convention in Chicago. Seventy-five million more persons, he said, will ride on the electric cars this year than last, city lines are enjoying greater prosperity than interurbans, and inroads from bus competition are being decreased by official regulation.

There are few industries which are doing more to bring business of the country back to a pre-war basis. Reports from seventy-two companies, representing one-third of the total electric railway revenue of the country, indicate that during the current year 21.6 per cent of the operating expenses of the electric railway industry will be devoted to the purchase of material and supplies. In all, this amounts to approximately $136,000,000.

The time when the long-harassed electric lines will have recovered, it is indicated is not far off. Financial problems remain to be solved. New money must be raised through the sale of securities and this money must come from investors. A start toward the new financing is being made with the object to improve service and increase earnings to the point where there will be no difficulty in bringing money back into the industry.

The street car is emerging from troubled times and is proving there was no truth in the opinion generally expressed a few years ago, that its days were numbered and few.

RUSSIA CANNOT BUY.

Perhaps there is nothing to emphasize the situation of Russia more than the fact the few factories which are operating there are responsible for an over-production. This over-production does not mean the wants of the people are satisfied or that relief measures may be stopped. Instead, it tells a pitiful story of a populace too poor to absorb the limited number of articles manufactured.

The existence of this state of affairs, according to Captain Francis McCullagh, who writes from Kovno to the Washington Post, is proved by statistics submitted to him in Berlin and by a series of articles published recently by the Bolshevik economic journal, "Economic Life." Comparative tables in this organ of Lenin's government show industrial production in every line, cotton, leather, thread, iron, coal, etc., has been deliberately cut down because of this over-production. Boots accumulated in the factories because the people were too poor to buy them and the most indispensable articles have been left unpurchased.

Those who have been holding that Russia is hungry for American-made goods and would open a vast market to our manufacturers must recognize these facts. The hunger is there, but there is no ability to buy. The economic recovery is certain to be slow. A country which ten years ago could export enough grain to feed all Europe, is now importing it.

In the face of these facts Lloyd George would be shown mistaken in his talk of bursting bins and great wealth in Russia, and the American State Department would have seemed to have judged the situation in manner nearer correct. For ten years at least Russia will need to be fed and supported by the outside world.

Venizelos is about the only Greek to show first-class quality in recent years. He was chased away by the influences which brought Constantine back; and now that they have toppled Constantine again there seems to be an anxiety to have Venizelos back. But he does not appear to relish the idea of going back, seeming to be having too much fun in contemplating the fix his historic country finds herself in through the amateur statesmanship that succeeded him.

THE HOUSING ACT.

The new State Housing Act, which will appear on the November ballot as Proposal Number 5, is attracting unusual attention because its effect would be to prevent builders of new apartments and dwellings from using wooden shingles.

The prohibition against shingles is not clearly stated—and by some proponents of the measure it is denied—and yet it is there in the wording of the bill and is admitted by State Senator Lester G. Burnett of San Francisco, the man who introduced the bill at the last session of the legislature and the one who has written the argument for it in the booklet which has been sent out to the voters.

The measure is one of the longest in the book. It is filled with technical description and presents, complete, a new housing act. In effect, what the public is mainly interested in is this shingle controversy and the vote, largely, will be upon the question: "Shall the residents of California be allowed to use shingles for the roofing of dwellings to be erected in the future?" Those who favor the measure argue that the wooden shingle is a fire hazard and that patent roofing or fire retardant material should be used. Shingles treated with such material, they say, would come under the law.

It does not seem apparent that the shingle, and more particularly the redwood shingle of California, has merited ostracism. If the bill passes a great industry of the state will be attacked. If one reads the measure he will find semi-fireproof buildings defined as those with "approved" roofings and, later, will discover all dwellings to be erected in incorporated cities or towns must be of this "semi-fireproof" type.

Because this is denied in some quarters where there is a laudable impulse toward fire prevention this paragraph from the bill may be quoted:

"Every semi-fireproof building and wooden structure hereafter erected shall have the roofs thereof constructed and maintained in good repair with materials as in this act hereinbefore provided for semi-fireproof buildings."

The provision referred to reads: "The roofs of every semi-fireproof building shall be constructed of approved incombustible material or be well covered with an approved composition fire resistive or fire retardant material."

In his argument for the bill Senator Burnett says: "The provisions of the act respecting fire resisting roofs, which means merely the elimination of untreated wooden shingles, applies only to dwellings, hotels and tenement houses hereafter erected in incorporated towns and incorporated cities and to no other class of buildings and does not apply to such existing buildings, and such existing ones which may have their roofs repaired with wooden shingles."

In other words, the buildings which are to be erected must have the "approved" roof. It is this word "approved" which gives unchecked authority to building inspectors and other checked agencies as to the class of materials to be used. On this point; and another which permits tenement houses and hotels to be built in the rear of other buildings, Paul Sharenberg of the Commission of Immigration and Housing, for which the bill was drawn, has attacked the measure. It is significant that Sharenberg, other members of the commission, the governor and members of the legislature did not discover the "shingle joker" until the bill had been passed and signed. In the ten days which remained, during which time it was possible to hold up the bill for referendum, the petition was signed and commission members and many legislators who had voted for it, became its opponents.

Because the bill needlessly endangers a great California industry and is not what it appeared to be at first sight it should be defeated. Vote "No" on Number 5.

The news of the day contains an account of a justice of the peace at Redwood City dealing out a sentence of fifty days in jail to a man for killing a doe. It is the first official recognition of the fact that in the eye of the law a doe's life is of more importance than a human being's. There have been dozens of accounts of men, with the aid of automobiles, taking human life, or maiming human beings, and only one that has come to prominent notice in which jail sentence has been imposed. It would be interesting to know if the Redwood City justice has ever had one of these cases to deal with, and just how he dealt with it.

Behind Amador county's tax increase of $1 a hundred is something of which the citizens may be proud. The money is to go into a highway and a promise which was made some time ago is being kept.

If the Democrats discard the donkey as an emblem, where will be the kick in being a Democrat?

Kansas wants a law prohibiting bill collectors from wearing rubber heels.

Would Have to be "Kith."

We are in receipt of a poem on "Love's Idle Dream" and are holding it back only because it is too long. It is not that we are holding for brevity in love's dream, but we prefer it so and written on one side of the manuscript. The poet will agree with us, we are certain, that it would be asking the maniac readers to hush if they were expected to grasp the rhyme in the following:

Wake up, Oh idle dreamer,
 Your visions are only a myth;
 The face fades away into nothing
 Gone are the lips you would kiss.

And yet we like the song and wish we could print it all. Maybe Miss Billy D. will write again (on one side of the paper). And maybe she will not be so sad as when she sang:

"The rippling brook kisses the pebbles,
 As it flows on its way to the sea,
 And joins in the mighty ocean—
 Then why cannot love come to me?"

Which Reminds Us.

The Almanac poets, and poets in general, are a queer and touchy lot. There is J. L. E., for instance, who sings, in a verse which came today, of "my winsome muse." If we change it to winsome he may kick and if we don't, he may do worse. A winsome muse isn't so bad, at that. Then, again, he calls his muse "he." The poem, with the changes we would make, is a sonnet, addressed to Clementina Montgomery and follows:

O'h Clementina, ofttimes I think,
 I'll pen a sonnet next to you,
 And several times I've started to,
 But guess my muse was on the blink,
 For when my pen I filled with ink,
 Somewhere, I couldn't put it through;
 Pegasus spread his wings and flew,
 And meters took an awful slink.

My winsome muse is kind today,
 And as I think she's here to stay
 I'm penning you this simple lay.
 Your verse, so like ambrosial wine,
 Inspires me with a feeling fine—
 Alas, here is the fourteenth line.

—J. L. E.
 And while this heart to heart talk with poets and others is on, why not try to settle the great Harris question? There are those in the Almanac family who hail her as the torch bearer of a new form of poetic art and others who say she should be stored away for the winter with the pecans and filberts. When she quits contributing for so much as a week we are beset with appeals. "Give us more Harris!" and when she starts in we are forced to hush. "Give us a rest!" Anyhow, here is the latest gem from the poetess, herself:

Harris Goes a-Hunting.
 No moah, no moah,
 Coming in at the doah,
 No moah Poppa.

No pipe fumes to meet me,
 No harsh words to greet me,
 Ah Sorrow! I weep me.

No moah, no moah,
 As I'm scrubbing the doah,
 No moah Poppa to think on,
 No moah.

—Missus Harris.

Proud of Johnny.

(Priest Valley Rustler in Salinas Valley Rustler.)
 We are certainly proud of John O'Leary, for he is "Johnny on the spot." He can do anything, eat anything, drink anything and make you believe anything. He can almost make a jiffy talk. One day while driving along the road he spied a coyote. Not having a gun he crept up on it till quite close and then, with a sudden war whoop, gave it chase. When alongside he kicked the brute on the point of the jaw and knocked it out.

To the Tune of the Nightingale.
 Oh, listen to the ray-dee-o,
 Blah, blah;
 Oh, listen to the ray-dee-o
 Squeak, squeak—
 Oh, the ray-dee-o is singing all the day;
 Listen to the ray-dee-o,
 Blurr, squaw,
 Listen to the ray-dee-o
 Eee-waw-o-o,
 You can listen, but you can't tell what they say.

When they run automobiles by alcohol it will be up to the prohibition enforcers to arrest men for driving intoxicated machines.

NOTES and COMMENT

New York World: "Mike Rancher, coal-miner, of Rockwood, Pa., drew $291.45 for two weeks' work, eight hours a day. The fact was comparatively new; he struck a soft spot in the vein where coal came easily. City buyers may not think Rancher overpaid, since his luck enabled him to mine 250 tons, for which he received $1.16 a ton. There are other costs before coal reaches pit-mouth, but the mystery remains unexplained why the spread between mining cost and selling price is so great."

Washington Post: "The agreement reached by Harvard, Yale and Princeton last June regarding the eligibility of students for competition in intercollegiate sports has just been made known. As far as can be seen, it is an honest attempt to establish such a standard as will effectually abolish that tendency to professionalism which as a matter of motley was corroding college sports and eating away their cleanliness like an ulcer. Only the three institutions named are affected by this agreement, but it is hoped that their example will be contagious."

Washington Star: "It is stated in a story from Manila that, notwithstanding the failure of the recent special mission urging Philippine independence the agitation in the islands to that end continues, and that other missions will from time to time present themselves in Washington with claims of Filipinos to the complete management of the affairs of the archipelago. Well, this is a matter with the jurisdiction, so to say, of the agitators. If they have the price of such journeys and are willing to blow their money in it that way, who shall say them nay?"

Chicago News—President Harding has asked Congress for the power to protect aliens in the U. S. A. One thing at a time. If he gets this, the President may ask for power to protect citizens. Wouldn't that be perfectly splendid?"

Seattle Times: "America's approval of the attitude of the Allies toward the murdering Turk was indicated yesterday by Secretary of State Hughes. He declared their purpose to 'insure effectively the liberty of the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus, as well as the protection of racial and religious minorities are clearly in accord with American sentiment.' The secretary spoke the thought of the republic."

Thus the Boston Transcript: "In a parable of old they all began with one accord to make excuses. Today that same saying is fulfilled in our sight. Nation after nation in the League of Nations gives reasons why it cannot and will not reduce its armament. Let us concede that the reasons, which are all pretty much the same in purport, are valid and sufficient. We believe that they are. The fact still remains, conspicuous and self-evident, that in this respect, which was from the first one of its chief aims and chief reasons for existence, the League of Nations is a self-confessed failure."

Kansas City Star: "The Democrats have discarded the donkey as the party emblem, and have substituted the Goddess of Liberty. The Democrats evidently don't care anything about carrying New York nowadays—New Yorkers, you know, have been about half sore at the Goddess of Liberty ever since national prohibition. They say she stands out there and doesn't mean anything."

Chicago News—President Harding has asked Congress for the power to protect aliens in the U. S. A. One thing at a time. If he gets this, the President may ask for power to protect citizens. Wouldn't that be perfectly splendid?"

The men at the University of California have come back. They couldn't rest under the cloud of being proclaimed inferior to the women as students. "Women are not better students than men. They merely take easier courses." That is the way the men put it. And they hunched up Dean Putnam and got him to say: "Girls are more conscientious in their studies than men, but the men are carrying more technical courses than the women. If women were to take engineering, mining, medicine and other 'heavy' courses the story might be different."—Stockton Record.

JUST FOLKS

LIFE'S SEASONS.

Troubles come and troubles go,
 Never lingering very long.
 First the winter with its snow,
 Then the springtime with its song.

Then the summer filled with bloom,
 Happy skies above us all,
 Then a day of dark and gloom,
 And the first cold frost of fall.

Winter follows, long and drear,
 Bitterly the billiards roar,
 Then a robin's song we hear,
 And the spring has come once more.

So with us, whose'er we be,
 Trouble frets us for awhile,
 Hurt and grief fall bitterly,
 Then it comes our time to smile.

Joy is followed by the tear,
 Grief and all its hours of pain,
 Then a friendly voice we hear—
 Life is at the spring again.

About YOUR HEALTH

What "Purpura" Is and What to Do About It.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Did you ever pinch your finger and have a blood clot form under the nail? Did you ever get hit in the eye and have a black effusion under the skin? These conditions are due to an injury capable of breaking the wall of a blood-vessel and thus permitting the blood to leak into the adjacent soft tissues.

But there may be such leakages of blood, not the result of injury, but the result of disease. These spots may occur anywhere in the body. When the effusion is just beneath the skin it makes a stain like that you have seen in a "black-eye."

The doctor calls discoloration such as this "purpuric spots." The condition is known as "purpura." Purpura is not a disease in the sense that pneumonia is, or scarlet fever or malaria. Purpura is a symptom merely. It is a sign of some weakness of the blood-vessels, or of some alteration in the blood.

It is not unusual for the skin to look blue, but in ordinary blood stagnation, due to sluggishness of the circulation, pressure of the thumb will cause the blueness to disappear. In purpura, however, there is a blue or purple spot which remains no matter how much you press it. It remains because there actually is a deposit of blood under the skin and outside the blood-vessel walls.

There are a number of causes for purpura. It is a common symptom in what we call the "malignant diseases," like typhus. It may be observed in measles and other "rashes."

In certain constitutional diseases, like heart disease, Bright's disease, scurvy and various blood diseases, it may be a symptom. Purpura is one of the signs of poisoning with mercury, quinine and snake bite. In severe snake poison purpuric spots are a conspicuous symptom.

Perhaps the most interesting form of purpura is that associated with nervous disturbances. It is found in inflammation of the spinal cord, in locomotor ataxia and in various circulatory disturbances founded on the nerves.

This last form is rather mysterious. Its causes are not known. Perhaps some yet undiscovered poison floats through the blood and produces this symptom.

In children it sometimes occurs under the name of "simple purpura." There is no fever and no disturbance, except the black spots. They disappear within a couple of weeks.

A more serious variety is called "purpura hemorrhagica." Here we have fever, systemic disturbances, and occasionally, unfortunately, death follows.

Once in a while rheumatism of the joints may have purpuric spots among its manifestations.

As I have said, purpura is not a disease. It is merely a symptom, and its presence is readily observed. In the treatment, attention must be given the underlying condition. Whatever it is that has upset the general health must be removed.

When the tone of the blood-vessels has been restored to normal there will be no recurrence of the symptoms. The spots themselves will speedily disappear if there is no further leakage of blood.

HINDENBURG ON 75TH BIRTHDAY CRIES WARNING

Field Marshal Says Germany
Cannot Live Forever in Misery and Shame.

By S. D. WEYER.
(International News Service Staff Correspondent.)
(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

HANOVER, Germany, Oct. 2.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, outstanding German military figure in the great war, celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday today by issuing a warning that "Germany cannot live forever in misery and shame."

In an exclusive interview with International News Service, the famous old German soldier said: "Germany today needs men who know how, at the psychological moment, to exploit the most opportune foreign policy. The offer of other nations to help Germany reestablish herself then would come more quickly than is imagined."

When congratulated upon his health and vigor, the field marshal laughed, remarking: "I feel spry and vigorous. I can still climb mountains and shoot reindeer."

Glendale Citizen Is Killed on Hunt

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—L. B. Randall of Glendale, a suburb, was killed today while duck hunting on Elizabeth lake, about sixty miles from here. John Bruno was arrested and detained at the county jail on suspicion that he shot Randall. Bruno was said to have been firing at mudhens with an automatic pistol.

The opening day of the duck season, near Los Angeles, also was marked by the wounding of five other hunters, one of whom, James Haswell, of this city, was shot in the eye.

Girl to Fly Across Nation As Tribute to War Mothers

MISS LILLIAN GATLIN of San Francisco, who will make a trip from coast to coast, via air mail, in honor of mothers whose sons were aviators and killed during the war.

Miss Lillian Gatlin of San Francisco, who has been authorized to go from here to New York by air mail to memorialize the gold star mothers of aviators, will be the first woman to fly across the continent. After reaching New York she will return to Detroit to be present at the aerial meet to be held there.

Miss Gatlin was the leader of the movement to pay tribute to the mothers of aviators of the Pacific Coast who fell while in service during the world war. Recently they were honored when a convoy of twelve planes flew over San Francisco bay and dropped roses and carnations. It is now proposed to bring the nation's attention to the sacrifice of those mothers and Miss Gatlin has asked permission to fly across the country in order to spread the idea. Stops will be made at the various cities.

At Detroit she will be met by Second Assistant Postmaster General Paul Henderson.

REGULARS FIND PLEASING BILL GIVEN ORPHEUM

Law of Averages Redeems Previous Dullness and Several Acts Sparkle.

What a pity it would have been if the "regulars" who were disgruntled at the lack of quality in last week's show at the Orpheum had remained away yesterday and thus missed the thoroughly delightful entertainment presented by a corps of clever performers for their especial delectation.

As it was, the inveterate vaudeville followers, relied on the inevitable law of averages and not only turned out en masse but brought their friends. They figured that a bad show must needs be followed by a good one and they were not disappointed.

There were seven acts on the bill exclusive of the motion pictures, and only two were below average. A third was saved by the cleverness of the feminine partner. Fortunately these three inadequate numbers opened the program and when the audience filed out of the theater the unpleasantness had been forgotten.

Jack and Jessie Gibson opened the bill with a moth-eaten cycling act made almost intolerable by continued "stalling" and interpolation of "comedy." Cyclists should cycle and leave the laugh provoking to the comedians. They were followed by Devote and Lloyd, "Two Southern Gentlemen," offering a line of dull and somewhat blue chatter.

Then came Elizabeth Kennedy and Milton Berke, two youngsters in a variety act. If Elizabeth's partner were not so self-satisfied and were nearly as clever as his diminutive partner or half as talented as he, he gave the appearance of thinking the act would be a success. As it is, the girl was splendid and won an ovation which her partner mistakenly supposed was due to his efforts and for which he took credit in a certain speech.

THE SHOW IMPROVES. At this point the show started in earnest and set about to make itself one of the most notable offerings of the season in a vaudeville way.

Rae Samuels, "the blue streak of vaudeville," was the accredited headliner. Other stellar acts may, and have been, humiliated by seeing a lesser light win the attention of the audience. Not so with Miss Samuels. She is the "blue streak" beyond reason of a doubt this week, and if her dressing room is not adorned with the proverbial star she has reason to raise the proverbial howl.

Rae Samuels is not a newcomer. That was proven by the ovation she received on her entrance. She is one who improves on acquaintance and her act this season is a sheer delight. Always with her and her singing always with good spirits, this singing comedienne kept the house in an uproar of merriment and was forced to a number of encores.

Her songs were written by Billy Tracey and Halcyon Moll and are clever and clean in addition to being tuneful. Miss Samuels put them over with flying colors, got great sport out of her characterizations and wore her new Parisian radium gown. She is just as young as ever, twice as clever, and her's was undoubtedly the hit of the bill.

ANOTHER TREAT was provided by Beth Beri, a California product, who attained fame in the east as a dancer. Miss Beri has in her company two clever young men, Talbot Kenney and Paul O'Neill, who sing, dance and play piano and do each thing well. Miss Beri is as comely as she is talented.

There was only one snafu in the program.

AMERICAN
T. and D.

"Manlaughter," a ten-reel screen adaptation, with Thomas Meighan and Leatrice Joy, of the Saturday Evening post story of the same name by Alice Duer Miller, opens tomorrow at The American theater.

In the story Lydia Thorne, portrayed by Leatrice Joy, is a beautiful, wealthy and self-centered society girl. Daniel O'Bannon, enacted by Thomas Meighan, is district attorney. He meets her and falls in love with her. Miss Thorne, whose hobby is speeding is pursued by a track-hunter in an attempt to avoid him, her car skids, crashes into him and kills him. Despite his love for her O'Bannon honestly and vigorously prosecutes and convicts her.

Prison with its defiance of caste puts forth some duties upon Lydia. She swears vengeance against the man that sent her there. But, after serving her term, she dedicates her life to humanitarian service and the most humanitarian act of her new existence is done for O'Bannon.

Possessing a remarkable contralto voice that has a range of three and one-half octaves, Marion Clara, a French opera star, sang her way into favor yesterday at Pantages.

Her rendition of "Goodbye" and the singing of a popular aria headed the production in dramatic soprano, proved that she is an unusual artist.

good work with the material in hand and managed to have the audience out of harmony with him from the start, which was exactly what the role called for. Dorothy Blackburn, playing the vampire, was not so successful.

At times the comedy honors of Ivan were shared by Henry Shumer as the bumbling and blubious Colonel James Constance, but the role was not strong enough in point of "sides" to afford Shumer anything but touches here and there. Frederick Green was the typical detective, and Frank Wallace was good as the scheming butler.

Stewart Wilson, so excellent last week in "Seventeen," was like a fish out of water in "The Night Cap." W. Vaughn Morgan and Walter Scott Weeks completed the cast.

"The Night Cap" was presented, under the capable stage direction of Frank Darter, and it was worth seeing if only to see Ivan. At any rate, the audience gasped at the murders, held their breaths during the moments of suspense, and laughed unreservedly, pretty generally throughout.—W. E.

the Army of a Million Crooks
by August Vollmer
President of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, and leading authority on criminology.

THE CRIMINAL RECRUITS

Chapter 95

WHAT is the source of the army of a million crooks? Do vicious men breed in human cesspools like vile disease germs?

Are all criminals vicious? Or are they subnormals, morons, feeble-minded?

Someone has called crime a "fifth disease." If refuse in your backyard were to prostrate a member of your family you would remove the filth. If crime is a fifth disease then the recruits of the army of criminals are bred in an atmosphere of physical, mental or moral slime.

Dr. Paul Bowers, medical psychologist for the United States public health service, declares that 50 per cent of convicted criminals are mental defectives. Half of that outlaw army, then, are sub-normals or abnormal, crazy, feeble-minded, morons, monsters, perverts. And 40 per cent more are constitutional inferiors, or persons who are inferior physically or mentally in some detail.

So if you are seeking out the breeding place of recruits for the bandit regiments you have accounted for practically 60 per cent of them. Find where the half-wits are spawned, destroy the hotbed and half the battle is won.

Yet it must be understood that not all feeble-minded people are criminals. In the United States are 1,748,560 mental defectives. This class of citizen has the highest criminal potentiality; that is, he is more likely to be a criminal than the normal. He would be the quickest to succumb. Vollmer is inclined to label all sub-normals as "potential criminals."

generally in the broader sense of the term, and degeneracy means that some very essential physical, mental or bulwark has been broken down.

Fifty per cent of the half million jailbirds are recidivists, or hardened criminals. Known as "two-time losers." This 50 per cent commits 91 per cent of the crime.

But how about the other 40 per cent of this outlaw army whom psychologists do not classify as defectives? Are they just ordinary people like you and me? Or do they come within another special classification?

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt once said of us has within him primordial instincts and passions which, if they gained control over our reason, would transform us into wild beasts.

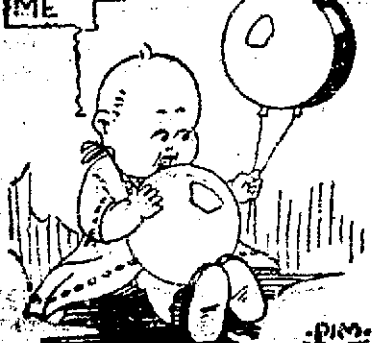

This criminal then, must be a man who allows these primordial instincts to dominate him. The census of 1910 specifies that 493,000 delinquents and criminals served terms in jails, prisons and reformatories in one year. Of this number 48,000, or 9 per cent, were women; 23 per cent were foreign born and 22 per cent were colored.

The 1920 census figures are not complete, but criminologists figure that crime has increased in direct proportion to increase in population and add 15 per cent to the 1910 figures to get data for 1920.

Now, since only 18 per cent of the population is foreign born, we find that the aliens furnish more than their share of delinquents with 23 per cent. Also we find that while the colored people are but 10 per cent of the total population, they supply a disproportionate share of violators, with 22 per cent, 120,400. As 3,500,000 are in city jails and workhouses and 24,974 in homes for juvenile delinquents. Tomorrow, "Where Crooks Flourish."

Rodolph Valentino

Rodolph Valentino, although he failed to break his contract with Paramount, has come out victor with the Famous Players organization, having his salary boosted from $1200 to $7000 a week, it is rumored. He is expected in Hollywood this week to resume work before the camera. His suit was based on the alleged fact that he was to be married.

Doug's New Idea

Something new in the way of transportation of motion picture film was put into effect early this week by Douglas Fairbanks when Harry D. Buckley left Los Angeles to personally conduct the first print of Doug's film version of Robin Hood into New York.

The film which is said to be insured for half a million dollars reported in a car in the express car, but because of unsettled conditions on the railroads due to the strike situation, Buckley, who is Doug's road show manager, will chaperone the film through the "trouble zone" in Chicago and conduct it safely into New York where arrangements will be made for showing it at a legitimate premiere in one of the theaters on Broadway.

Buckley will establish headquarters in New York and follow the opening of the Fairbanks version of Robin Hood, which is officially titled "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," will send out several road shows each of which will have a personally chaperoned print of the picture.

New "Find" in "Minnie"

Raymond Griffith, comedian, whose first dramatic work in Marshall Neilan's "Fools First" established him as one of the most notable actors of serious roles in the films, will be seen in "Minnie," Neilan's newest picture for First National.

Griffith's work in "Fools First" has been hailed by the critics as one of the best characterizations of the year. He has been called the second Henry Walthall of the screen as a result of his portrayal of "The Wolf" in Neilan's picture. In "Minnie," Griffith is given a comedy role, that of the enterprising chewing gum salesman and, according to reports, his work in this picture will duplicate his success in "Fools First."

Phyllis Chosen For Role

Phyllis Haver, dainty and vivacious who plays opposite Buster Keaton in his comedies, formerly delighted the eyes of motion picture fans as a Mack Sennett bathing girl and star player. Miss Haver was chosen for the role as ingenue in the Keaton comedies by Buster himself.

Buster says that attractive femininity adds an artistic touch to slapstick humor, providing the girl has certain requirements. "For instance," says Buster, "a girl to succeed in comedies must be beautiful, vivacious, able to act, have a smile that will show dimples and be an athlete."

Phyllis Haver fills every qualification of the exacting bill and more too. Her winsome personality, as the much sought after heroine in the Buster Keaton comedies, gives that added touch of lightness and grace to the polished slapsticks of the sober-faced comedian.

Starts New Production

William deMille last week started on his new production in which Bebe Daniels and Lewis Stone are playing the leading roles with Kathryn Williams, Adolphe Menjou, Winter Hall, Edward Martindel, Bernice Frank, Maym Kelso, and others in important parts. Clara Beranger wrote the story especially for Miss Daniels. It deals with a young girl whose head is turned by the struggle for fame but who finds love and happiness in the end. This role is believed to be ideally suited to Miss Daniels who will also have an opportunity of wearing some striking and daring costumes.

Buster in New Comedy

The only person who does not crack a smile during the course of a Buster Keaton comedy is Buster himself and that perhaps is one of the reasons why this comedian has made such a hit with the fans. The sad and reproachful look of the elastic Buster Keaton, as some particularly funny stunt finds him for an angry victim, is so curiously hilarious that it never fails to arouse laughter. It is so ludicrous to see a serious person caught in the toils of a slapstick comedy that the appeal to humor is irresistible.

Added to this is the novelty of the many acrobatic contortions and weird falls of which this young comedian is a past master. Almost before he had graduated from the cradle Buster started on his falling career under the careful teaching of his father who was a showman. Being slight of build he was extremely fond of a crowd of around in the tumbling act known as "The Three Keatons."

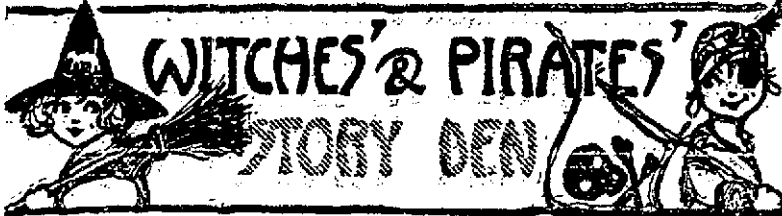

All those erratic falls which used to shock the curiosity of the authorities in his early stage days, Buster now puts to good use in his rough and ready escapades as the comical hero of the comedies he is making for Joseph M. Schenck for release through Associated First National.

Bull Visits Home Town

Financial depression in Europe was relieved in at least one section temporarily by Bull Montana, the Metro comedian whose famed beauty is like the storm and rockbound coasts. The locality in question is Voghera, Italy, Bull's home town, which he recently visited after an absence of seventeen years.

The first move on his arrival in Voghera was to buy a better home for his parents; his second to deposit several thousand dollars to their credit in a local bank. Then he went to the business section of the town and made a series of purchases which took him into every store. Each time he entered a shop or business a crowd of admiring citizens followed him. While Bull stayed they lingered; when he left, so did they.

A photograph was among Bull's purchases—in fact he took the Metro comedian's whole except an automobile. The older Montana, sixty-six years old, refused to even ride in one.

Here's a splendid story—

JERRY'S TOMBS.

Gail was a city girl, used to all modern conveniences. She was to stay with her future mother-in-law during the winter. The Doctor had told her she was getting very thin, weak and pale and should go to the country to stay at least three months. Jerry's farm was five miles from the city. Gail's first unpleasant impression was the cemetery, which was very close to the house.

"Why, dear," said Mrs. Holcomb, "I never mind the cemetery. Sort of think of it—I do think of it as all—dead's. No harm in it, just peace and restful quiet."

"Mother would feel lonesome away from those tombstones," interrupted Jerry, "especially y old Jerry."

"Jeremiah was my brother," his mother explained, "he used to live with me after my husband died, and the boy had gone to the city. Jerry was particular about his tombstone, left money for it, and wanted it a reasonable distance from the house. There is a queer niche cut in it to hold a statue but during the summer I keep it filled up with flowers."

"I am not superstitiously afraid of anything but that," Gail defended herself, "it's just that I feel the location would make me feel lonesome."

That evening after supper, Jerry took his mother down to the city. Gail received an invitation to go but declined it. She said she would rather stay by the fire. She felt very uneasy because Jerry had left the firm's money on the couch in a leather bag. Just as she was putting the money away, she heard the motor of an automobile, and saw two figures alight and climb in a window of the house.

She thought they were burglars and ran out the back and hid the bag of money in old Jerry's niche. There she saw Mrs. Holcomb and Jerry coming back and told them the story and found they were two cousins of Jerry's. But he felt proud of Gail just the same and became engaged to her.

THE MYSTERY OF THE PEARL

One day as Jack Lamont was walking down the street toward China town he heard two Chinese men saying, "We will capture Ruth Hayes tonight when she goes out in her yacht. Meet me at the dock at the same time as her boat goes out. It goes out at 8:30."

It was now 8:15. Jack had fifteen minutes to get to Ruth's house. When he arrived there, she was just going down to the dock. Just as he was going to tell her, four Chinese men came and bound and gagged Ruth and Jack.

The Chinese men took them to an opium den where men were smoking opium. They put them in a room. While Jack was trying to get away Fing Wing came in and said, "You think you can get away but you can't."

After a hard struggle Jack got loose and then untied Ruth. They then went to capture the Chinese men. They opened the door and it led to an underground passage. When they came to the end there were three doors. They said "We will go through the one on the right hand side." They saw the king sitting on a throne and some Chinese slave girls around it.

Jack said, "Let's go down these stairs," so they went down the stairs and it led into the street. They then went and told the police. They came and raided the place.

Jack was a detective and he searched one room and found the pearl which was stolen by Fing Wing. Everybody wanted the pearl. Jack wondered why everybody wanted it. As he was turning and twisting it in his hand a piece of pearl came off and Jack saw a piece of paper, he opened it and saw a map where some jewels were hidden by Fing Wing.

The police and him went and found the jewels. They gave the jewels to Jack and $5,000 reward for the capture of Fing Wing and his gang. Two weeks later Jack and Ruth were married and sailed for France.

Long Lines For Fall Wear

(No. 1536)

Shorter, cooler days bring thoughts of new clothes, and so many women are pondering over just what type of dress to make. For their benefit, we would say that skirts are to be decidedly longer, as are the sleeves of the up-to-the-moment frock. Many of the new dresses are adopting collars in place of the collarless, bateau neckline dresses that have been so popular for the past few seasons.

The style illustrated in this sketch combines the newest ideas with conservative lines, making it an altogether correct style for the woman who sews to choose. The original design was made in that new shade, bottle green serge, with collar, belt and sleeve facings of gray crepe de Chine and it cost but $4.50 using serge at $1 per yard and crepe de Chine at $1.50 per yard.

The pattern No. 1536 cuts in sizes 16 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3 3/4 yards 40-inch material with 1/2 yard 36-inch contrasting. Price 15c, stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Added to this is the novelty of the many acrobatic contortions and weird falls of which this young comedian is a past master. The Radio Bug.

My boy—
Came home the other night—
With his eyes on fire—
And his pockets full of things—
Wire—spools—nails—tacks—
These he laid carefully on the table—
And took out a book of drawings—
Across the front I read—
"How to make your own radio outfit—
For forty cents"—
For the first few nights he worked alone—
Then he was ready for me—
To string his aerial—
I gave several valid excuses—
Was tired—rheumatic—doctor said not to climb—
But the wire had to go up—
To the top-most peak of a pole—
On top of the barn—
With misgivings I mounted the unsteady ladder—
And slowly made my way to the barn roof—
Then, removing my shoes—
I placed one foot on the shingled roof—
It slipped—
I grabbed wildly at everything in reach—
And missed them all—
And landed with a grunt where I started—
The quickest prayer on record—
I made on the way down—
It took—
I landed in a soft rose bed—
"Now"—said my boy—"you broke your connection"—
I had heard something snap—
And thought it was my back—
I tried it again and made it—
Then we went inside to tune up—
Suddenly I saw his eyes spark me—
He placed the ear-piece over my head—
"Listen"—he grinned—exultantly—
I did—and rasping into my ear came this—
Cut-cut-cut-c-u-u-u-t—cut-cut-cut—
Then came a weak squeaking—then a thin voice—
Like a man in a well—"Hello—hello everybody!"—
Mr. Hoozit will sing—"Rocked in the cradle of the deep"—
Mr. Hoozit's voice was fuzzy—
I hope he wasn't altogether responsible—
Then came a selection by a cornet player with a jag on—
At least it broadcasted that way—
Give the man due credit—he was game—
That ended I. X. L. for that evening—
I was about to set up an awful holler—
When I caught the enthusiasm in my boy's eyes—
"Wasn't that great, dad—Oh, gee I'm tickled!"—
Then I thought how dangerous it was—
To destroy the enthusiasm of youth—
And although I was sore from my fall, I said—
"Putting your spare time on that, my boy, will take you farther—
Than standing on the corner smoking cigarettes."

My Favorite Stories by IRVIN S. COBB

Absolutely Replete with Thrills.

When Opie Reed, the writer, was a printer down in Tennessee many years ago, he worked on a small weekly paper and boarded with the keeper of a small general store.

"My host," said Reed to me, "was the most inveterate checker player in the state, and his wife was the best cook that ever lived in any state. The house was right next to the store, and the place where I worked was just across the road. One day the dinner horn blew, and I broke for the store to pick up the old man and hustle for the table. I was as hungry as a bear, and as I came across the road I could smell fried chicken and other good things, and I fairly dribbled at the mouth."

"The husband was sitting at the back of the store playing checkers with another old chap. These two were the checker champions of the county. I told him dinner was ready and begged him to come on, because I knew his wife wouldn't put the dishes on the table until he showed up; but he was right in the middle of a close game, and he only shook his head."

"I stood there waiting, getting hungrier and hungrier every minute, and madder and madder! That dinner was bound either to scorch or get cold—and maybe do both; but there sat that old pair of fossils silent as mummies and still as the grave. Neither of them moved an inch for fifteen minutes. Finally my host deliberately picked up a counter, held it poised in the air for another minute, and then put it back in its original place and said, half to himself: 'Well, this is excitin!'

"It was at this juncture," said Reed, "that I hauled off and kicked his blamed old checkerboard clear out of the front door!"

My Marriage Problems

Childe Garrison's New Phase Of Revelations of a Wife

THE DRAMA DICKY STAGED IN THE ROAD.

"Those bags will protect the suitcases a little," Lillian said, "and if there should happen to be any delay on the road you and I could rearrange things while the Dickybird struggled with the reins."

"I hope your words won't be a prophecy," I laughed, but when we were within two miles of Kingston an unmistakable loud report told me that one of the tires had blown out.

As the noise of the bursting tire came to my ears I made that instinctive gesture of the motorist, the outstretched hand, as a signal that I was slowing up. Then I drove to the side of the road and stopped, giving the blasts upon the motor horn upon which Dicky and I had agreed.

There was no need of the horn, however. He must have been close behind us for the next second he had driven past me and had drawn up the car he was driving a few paces in front of ours.

"What the dickens did you do to her?" he demanded. "I guessed my choler rose at this absurd unreasonableness, but I kept my voice cool."

"Junior could—"

"I threw a torpedo into the road and then ran over it," I said airily. There was a giggle behind me, suddenly smothered. I guessed that Lillian's hand had promptly covered Marion's mouth, and I regretted my own attempt at glibness. Dicky's portentous frown indicated that this was no time for jesting.

"Can the comedy," he commanded curtly, "and then all of you will have to pile out and get into the other car. Look at that shoe! Now, what the devil is he doing?" He stood with his hands in his pockets looking gloomily at the flattened shoe. A sudden suspicion flashed into my mind, and as Lillian with Junior and Marion went toward the other car I voiced it.

"Dicky! You don't mean that you didn't have that inner tube fixed on that spare?"

"Yes, I mean exactly that," he snapped. "I need an extra spare tire."

ing to get one at Kingston. How on earth you managed to get that blowout on a road like a billiard table I can't tell for the life of me. "That's the way of a woman driving!"

"You're mistaken," I said spiritedly. "It's the way of a man never taking the proper precautions against sudden emergencies."

"You keep quiet!" Then he took refuge in a man's prerogative, apostrophizing the scenery "picturesquely" for several seconds, taking care, however, to keep his voice low and covered so that Lillian and the children should not hear him.

The contrast between his low, controlled tones and his multiple-skinner's vocabulary "my sense of the ludicrous," and I laughed outright. But I lost my sense of humor immediately afterward, for there leaped into Dicky's eyes a look I knew only too well, a look which I generally presaged one of his rages.

"Forgive me, Dicky," I pleaded. "I know it's horrible to laugh, but if you only knew how funny that whisperey cussing sounded—I would laugh any more."

"You'd better not if you want a whole bone in your head," he retorted, and I knew that I had averted a storm for the time being. "It's a wonder you wouldn't bend your alleged brain to thinking out something to do," he went on, and I realized with a smile I had to smother that this was really an appeal for aid in the current, masculine fashion, to ask for outright.

"Isn't there an inner tube, a good one, under the seat?" I inquired.

"Yes, but what the devil good does that do us?" he snapped. "I can change a spare all right, and I suppose I could put in the inner tube, but I'd ruin a perfectly good suit of clothes doing it. I didn't mean you to do it," I said.

"Well, may a poor worm of the dust inquire whether you mean to have Lillian, yourself, Marion or Junior do the job?"

"Junior could if he were a little older," I said with seeming indignation, but real shrewdness, for I knew there was nothing so calculated to put Dicky in good humor as a reference, however absurd, to his small son's precocity. "But I really think it would be too hard for him this morning. But have you noticed how many cracks of heavy sarcasm, 'your clairvoyant mind knows just when another of the gentry will appear on the scene, and whether or not he will be willing to stop if he does pass by'?"

"Our cars were standing at the foot of a long, steep hill, and Dicky facing me had his back to it, while I had an uninterrupted view of the whole sweep. I could have cheered madly when, over the crest of the hill, there appeared one of the lumbering trucks which are anathema to the pleasure-car motorists."

"I don't know, of course, what arrangements you can make with the driver," I said sweetly, "but a truck is coming down the hill behind you."

Uncle Wiggily Stories

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PICKLES.

A spicy smell filled the kitchen of the hollow stump bungalow. Uncle Wiggily Longears twinkled his pink nose and sniffed. Then he sniffed once more.

"It seems to me," spoke the bunny rabbit gentleman, "that I smell something very good, indeed! I must see what Nurse Jane is making."

Uncle Wiggily hopped down to the kitchen. His muskrat lady housekeeper was boiling something on the stove. It was from the kettle on the stove that the spicy smell seemed to float up like a white cloud in a blue sky.

"What are you making, Nurse Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Pickles," answered Miss Fussy Wuzzy. "And I'm glad you happened to ask me, Uncle Wiggily, for I need a few things more to finish my pickles. Will you kindly go to the store for me?"

"Right gladly will I go!" answered Uncle Wiggily, speaking like Robin Hood, the jolly outlaw.

"What may I have the pleasure of getting for you, Nurse Jane?"

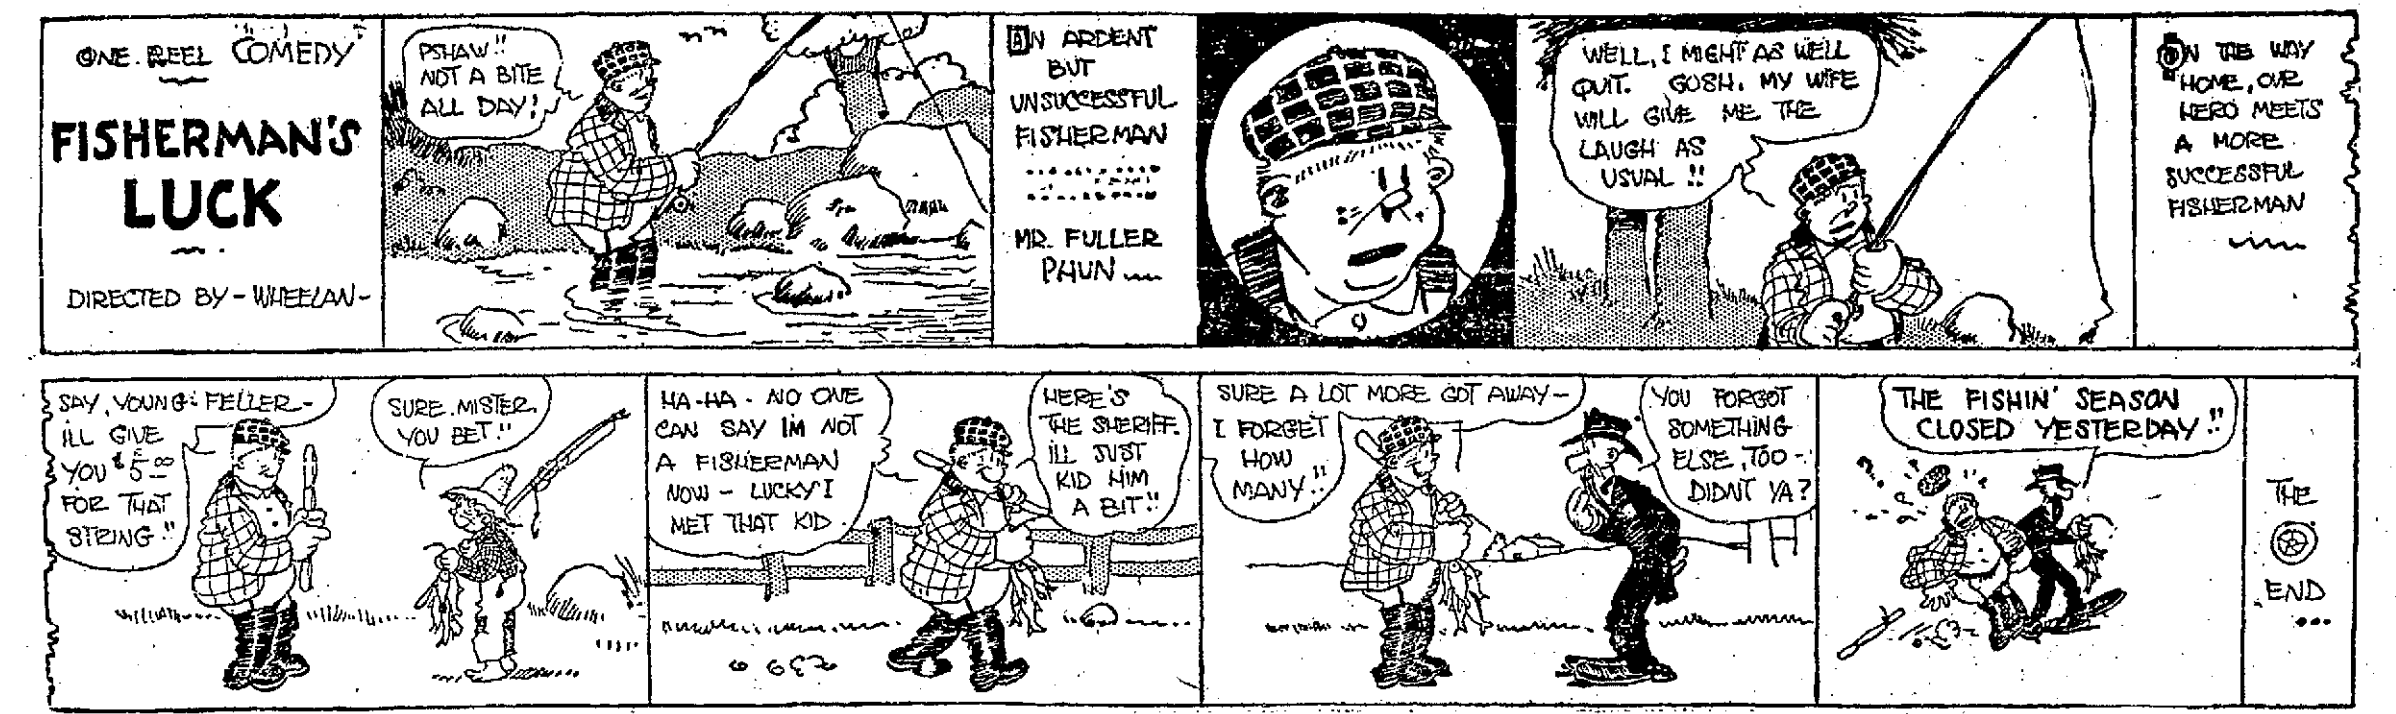

"I'll write what I want down on a bit of white birch bark," said the muskrat lady, "then you won't forget in case you have an adventure."

Nurse Jane wrote down what she wanted on the piece of white birch bark, which the animal folk use instead of paper if they read it. Then, holding the bark in his paw, Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and through the woods until he reached the grocery store.

"I'll get Nurse Jane's things first," said Uncle Wiggily, "and look for an adventure afterward. Please put these things in a bag for me," spoke Uncle Wiggily to the monkey doodle gentleman who kept the grocery store.

"Hum," chattered the monkey doodle, "Nurse Jane wants sugar and spice and other things nice and um-yes-er-um," and he went off, mumbling to himself to get the different things Nurse Jane had written on the birch bark.

"I don't have to!" croaked Bully. "I can jump right over your back, and I will, Uncle Wiggily. Don't worry!"

"Suppose you fall in the water?" asked the bunny.

"Little matters that to me!" laughed the frog boy.

"Oh, that's so! You can swim!" laughed the bunny. "Well, come on!" So Bully jumped over Uncle Wiggily's back on the narrow bridge, and the frog boy landed safely on the log, not falling in the water. Then Uncle Wiggily went on his way and Bully hopped on his way.

The bunny gentleman was half way across the log bridge, when all of a sudden, out on it, from the other end, ran the Woolie Wolf.

"Go back off my bridge!" howled the Wolf to the bunny.

"Oh, if you please, I don't want to do that," said Uncle Wiggily. "Can't you jump over my back as Bully did?"

"Stuff for Nurse Jane's pickles," answered the rabbit.

"Please don't take it!"

"Yes, I shall!" howled the Wolf. He came close to Uncle Wiggily, snatched the bag and, grabbing onto something bright red, popped it into his mouth. Then, all at once, the Wolf gave a loud yowl and howl and up in the air off the log jumped. Whoopie! Zoopie! howled the Wolf and he jumped over the les," answered the rabbit.

"Please don't take it!"

"Yes, I shall!" howled the Wolf. He came close to Uncle Wiggily, snatched the bag and, grabbing onto something bright red, popped it into his mouth. Then, all at once, the Wolf gave a loud yowl and howl and up in the air off the log jumped. Whoopie! Zoopie! howled the Wolf and he jumped over the the bunny's back and ran off in the woods, still howling.

"I wonder what that red thing was the Wolf ate?" thought the bunny as he hopped safely home to his bungalow. "What was it, Nurse Jane?" he asked the muskrat lady, as he told her what happened.

"It was a red-hot pepper that the Wolf ate!" laughed Miss Fussy Wuzzy. "No wonder he jumped! But there is another pepper left for my pickles; don't worry, Uncle Wiggily," she added. "I only put in the least little bit. The red pepper won't bite you."

But the Wolf had a burned mouth for a week.

LAND CONDEMNED BY COURT FOR WIDER STREET

Suit Decided Will Open Way for Improvement of East Fourteenth.

The final judgment of condemnation in the case of City of Oakland vs. Mary M. Tobey et al. was entered today condemning a strip of land, approximately 20 feet wide, on the south side of East Fourteenth street, between Jones avenue and 103rd avenue. At the present time there is a very small street space between the car tracks and the sidewalk on the south side of East Fourteenth street, between Jones avenue and 103rd avenue, hence all of the traffic on East Fourteenth street is thrown over on the north side of the street. The condemnation of this 20-foot strip will enable the city to widen East Fourteenth street so as to make a passage-way on either side of the car tracks. East Fourteenth street is at present about 20 feet narrower than the remainder of the street west of Jones avenue.

The property owners are given sixty days in which to move back their fences and buildings. Two residences and the Elmhurst Hotel will have to be moved back. As soon as this is done the city will improve the new portion of the street and make the same passable as a public street.

There are now only two main arteries connecting the eastern end of the county with the city of Oakland, to-wit: Foothill boulevard and East Fourteenth street, the latter of which is the more direct route with better grades. The widening of the street and the improvement of the same is planned to improve traffic conditions to San Leandro, Hayward and the eastern end of the county and relieve traffic conditions now existing on this street.

The city has condemned by this decree twelve pieces of property at a total cost of $31,791.20 paid to 22 defendants. The city contributed one-fourth of this total cost from the general treasury. Assurance that the city was going ahead with this condemnation suit has already led to real estate activity along East Fourteenth street and has caused several pieces of property to change hands at enhanced values.

There are said to be fifty-three widows left of the war of 1812.

Elks "Boycott" San Quentin for Scant Courtesy

As the result of what is termed a deplorable fiasco, a large number of Oakland citizens are today highly indignant because they were not able to get into San Quentin yesterday, and promise that they will never go to San Quentin again.

Some thirty prominent Oaklanders allege that they were allowed to congregate at the San Quentin gates until they were curtly notified by a guard that there was no more room for them.

"We do not mind being left out," says City Engineer W. W. Harmon, one of the thirty, "but why did they leave us hanging around the gate? If we hadn't asked a guard, we might have been there yet, waiting at the gate of the penitentiary."

The thirty abandoned ones were members of a big Oakland expedition of several hundred Elks, with their baseball team and the Firemen's Band, who journeyed to the penitentiary to play baseball and give the annual treat to the inmates.

The visitors went through the prison gates in squads, being checked off by a guard. Spent by squad, the Elks rolled toward the baseball field; and then the gate was shut.

Prison officials assert that the limit to the number of visitors was reached, and there were no accommodations for the rest.

But nobody remembered to notify the luckless thirty waiting at the gate.

"No more San Quentin for us," say the Oaklanders.

AIR PIONEERS PAID TRIBUTES BY PORTUGUESE

Oakland Societies Do Honor to Aviators Who Crossed
Atlantic to Brazil.

Honoring the great flight of two Portuguese aviators across the southern Atlantic from Portugal to Brazil, the Portuguese societies of Oakland and the entire Eastbay region gathered yesterday at an impressive ceremony at the Auditorium, and proceeded through the city streets in parade. A banquet at the Hotel Oakland last night concluded the festivities.

Mayor John L. Davies and Dr. Aristides Souza Mendes, consul for Portugal, were the principal speakers at the Auditorium. Dr. J. Leite presided over the meeting.

Mayor Davies, in the course of his address, emphasized the friendly relations that always have existed between the United States and Portugal, and spoke highly of the good citizen qualities of the Portuguese settlers in California.

Consul Mendes spoke of the Transatlantic airplane flight of Captain Coutinho and Lieutenant Cabral of the Portuguese navy. What these men had done, he declared, was to be regarded in the same light as the great achievements of Portugal's immortal explorers. He spoke of Vasco de Gama, who rounded the Cape of Good Hope; of Magalhaes, whose device was "through seas never yet explored"; of Albuquerque, of Calicut, who chartered the coast of California, and of other heroes who opened the lanes of the sea to civilization and commerce. The recent flight from Portugal to Brazil, the speaker declared, constituted one more link between the old world and the new.

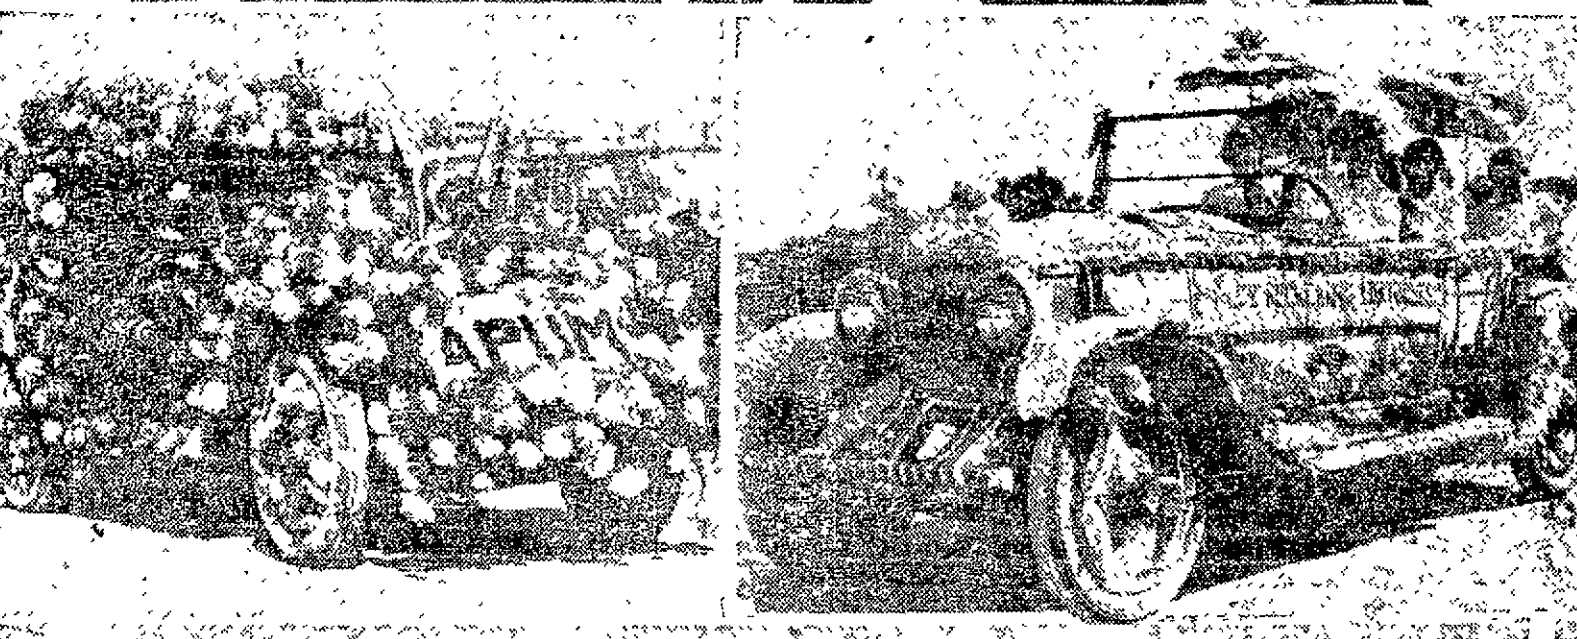

Dr. Joao Pinto, who served in the Portuguese army in France during the war, spoke of Portuguese-American friendship, and declared that these ties had been strengthened in the late war.

A number of unique floats, beautifully decorated with flowers and bunting, took part in the parade. A silver loving cup for the finest float was won by Dr. K. Ciech. The float depicted the achievements of the Portuguese explorers. Among those participating in the parade were the members of the Portuguese Ladies' Society, in white and blue uniforms, with their colors.

Arrangements for the day were

MAN TRIES TWICE TO END OWN LIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—J. J. Hardy, 501 Cole street, an aged, retired merchant, despondent and without funds, tried twice to commit suicide early today, but each time was found before his efforts succeeded. He first moved his bed against the door and then attempted to strangle himself with the cord of his bath robe.

Falling in this he attached a tube to a gas jet, placed it in his mouth and placed a cardboard box over his head. Neighbors detected the odor of gas and summoned aid.

An ambulance crew from the emergency hospital broke in the door. Hardy was taken to the park hospital unconscious, but with a chance for recovery.

WEBSTER STREET, ESTUARY BRIDGES BEFORE BOARD

War Department Letter to Be Acted on at Meeting
Thursday.

Two topics that have occupied the attention of the Board of Supervisors for many months were up again today at the regular weekly session of the board. The first was the question of bridge or tube under the estuary and the second was the status of the Webster street bridge case.

The board named George E. Posey, county surveyor, as official representative to attend a meeting Tuesday night at the Merchants' Exchange, when the inner harbor committee of that body will discuss the situation. The appointment of Posey was made as the result of a communication from George E. Shields, chairman of the harbor committee, asking the board to send a representative to the meeting.

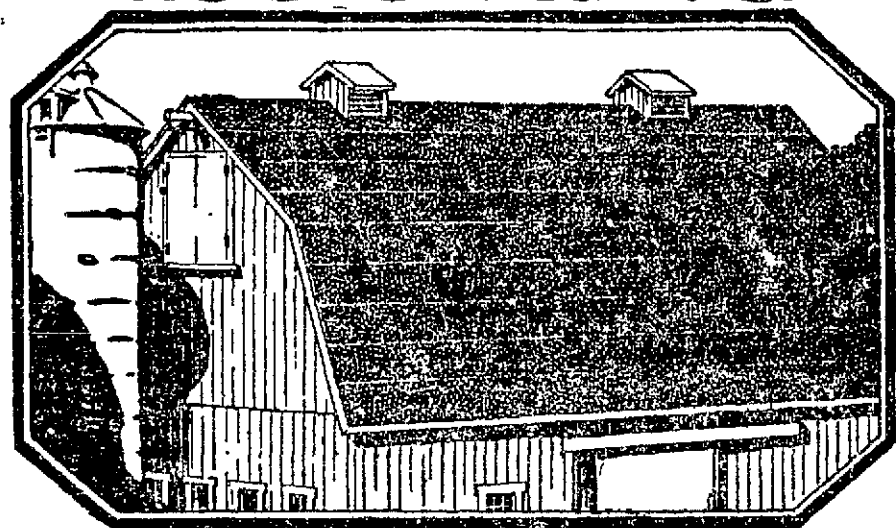

When the committee of the whole meets Thursday a letter from Colonel Herbert Deakins of the War Department, asking the status of the Webster street bridge case and in which the department has ordered that the bridge be altered to conform to certain specifications will be acted upon. The letter was read today and action postponed until Thursday.

The board ordered the consolidation of Calaveras and Mission San Jose precincts for the purposes of the general election. This action was taken upon recommendation of County Clerk George E. Gross.
